Council OKs Mission Street Center

After a tumultuous hearing attended by 250 spectators and sparked by 30 speakers and four hours of discussion, Daly City's City Council Monday approved the proposed Mission Street site for a city multi-purpose center.

The council acted unanimously on a resolution of necessity to initiate eminent domain proceedings for acquisition of 1.35 acres of land adjacent to the War Memorial Building.

The city plans immediate filing of proceedings to begin negotiations to acquire the land from three owners, one of which has objected strongly to city plans.

The Monday hearing had all the elements of a backlash, as at least 16 residents condemed a Lincoln Park Library Committee recommendation to locate the proposed 35,000 square-foot multi-use facility at the Lincoln Park site.

The Lincoln Park committee, an ad hoc group led by Original Daly City Protective Association directors Conrad Pavellas and Ernie Pezzola has been pushing for the Lincoln Park site, in the Crocker neighborhood behind Mission Street.

The committee had initiated a petition of 1,000 residents, resolutions and a recent rally in support of locating the proposed combined recreation-library-social services facility in that area.

Pavellas and Pezzola Monday were criticized severely by Mission Street site supporters, who said they were the "silent majority who opposed the Lincoln Park idea.

Julius Castelan, a senior citizen advocate, who said he favored the Mission Street site, referred to the leaders as "self-anointed priests of high hypocrisy. It's time you (council) called these people to bat."

Alice Gonzales, Community Services Center director, said community leaders who favored the Mission Street site had collected 1,000 signatures from the "the silent majority who are not joiners."

Rick Silver, a Daly City planning commissioner, also presented a petition of 39 signatures from senior citizens who use the Lincoln Park senior center. He said they favored the Mission Street multi-purpose site, while five others wanted a Lincoln Park multi-use facility.

Silver and Pavellas showed the heat apparent in the two opposing sides as they jockeyed with the council for procedural advantages during the lengthy hearing.

"When do we get our innings?" Pavellas asked

Drug Bust: 14 Nabbed

Eleven men and three women were arrested in a three-day drug and narcotics and burglary sweep by several jurisdictions in the north county last week, the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office Special Investigations Unit announced today.

Pacifica, San Bruno, South San Francisco, Daly City and the Sheriff's Office participated in the arrests.

Seized during the raids on a number of households were $3,000 worth of heroin, $8,000 worth of amphetemines and $13,000 worth of stolen property, according to Sheriff's Sgt. Peter Mirosnkoff.

The stolen property consisted of a Chevrolet Blazer truck, stereo equipment, rifles and handguns.

The investigation began with an arrest made by the Pacifica Police Department, and led to a major undercover operation of street heroin dealers, Mirosnkoff said.

This occurred throughout the northern parts of the county.

Four search warrants were issued for the raid.

There are still four outstanding felony warrants, he added, and suspects are still being sought.

In charge of the raiding teams were Sgt. J. Pasco of the Pacifica Police Department and Sgt. A. Johnson of the Special Investigations Unit.

They led raiding teams consisting of 20 officers of the northern jurisdiction law enforcement agencies.

Arrested and charged with the following counts were:

Michael Anthony Bosel, 27, charged with sale of heroin, five counts. He also is charged and booked on conspiracy.

Terri Lee Simms, 25, five counts of sales of heroin and a count of conspiracy.

Dennis Joseph Krieg, 27, possession, sale of heroin, sale of heroin, receiving stolen property, and possession of syringes.

Linda Sue Krieg, 27, possession for sale of heroin, receiving stolen property, and possession of syringes.

All of these were arrested at 157 San Diego Ave., San Bruno.

Also arrested in other raids were:

Barry Raymond Patrick Rennie, 30, arrested at 381 Third Ave., Daly City, charged with three counts of sales of amphetamines. Also he was charged with possession for sale of amphetamines. Mirosnkoff said a search warrant was executed and the $8,000 worth of amphetamines found at this address.

In Pacifica, arrests and charges included:

Jarrell Michael Bengle, 26, of 25 Francisco St., Apt. 16, Pacifica, charged with sale of heroin.

Jimmy Don Buckner, 33, of 77 Paloma Drive, Pacifica, charged with sale of heroin, conspiracy, receiving stolen property and an ex-felon armed with a handgun.

William Anthony Boyles, 31, charged with grand theft, auto.

Peter Robert Correa, 34, charged with sales of amphetamines and possession for sale of heroin.

Loren Grant Robertson, 30, possession for sale of heroin.

All of the last three were arrested at 14 Sonora St., Pacifica.

Robert Vincent Archini, 30, charged with sale of heroin.

Wilson Ortiz, 28, charged with sale of heroin and receiving stolen property.

Ortiz and Archini were arrested at 580 Sylvan St., Daly City.

Marina Transfer On Friday

The joint powers agreement between the San Mateo County Harbor District and the city of South San Francisco for operation and construction of Oyster Point Marina becomes an official documents at 12:01 a.m. Friday.

Once the document is signed, it will become legally binding and the often postponed, controversial $8.4 million expansion project officially will be under way.

A ceremony at which the signing will take place has been scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Friday at Oyster Point Marina.

The council voted 4-1 last month to sign the document. Councilman William Borba was the only dissenter.

The vote apparently put to rest for the time being a push to place the long-debated project on a city-wide ballot for taxpayer approval or rejection.

However, opponents of the expansion project have indicated that the marina project could be a major issue in the March election, when Councilmen Dick Battaglia and Leo Padreddii, both marina supporters, face re-election.

The 49-year agreement shifts most of the financial responsibility for the project to the county district.

IN MEMORY OF CZAR

Colma Ceremony

Slain Czar Honored

By NANCY STANCILL

A monarch slain 59 years ago in a dimly remembered homeland was honored Saturday in an unusual ceremony at Colma's Serbian Cemetery.

About 45 members of the United Russian Monarchist Organizations of San Francisco, Inc., were at the Hillside Boulevard cemetery to bless an immense monument they have erected to the last Russian Czar (emperor) of all the Russias.

The monument, eight feet high and carved from one piece of fine Italian marble, honors the memory of Nikolai Alexandrovich Romanov, Empress Alexandra Feodorovna and their five children, "who were brutally murdered in the early morning hours of July 18, 1918."

According to Nicolas N. Dudin, the president of the area-wide organization, the killings of the czar and his family sparked an era of terror which did not end until 1929.

One result of the Russian Revolution is that Dudin lost his father and will never be permitted to see the homeland of his ancestors.

The 57-year-old San Francisco man was born in Manchuria after his parents fled there to escape death in the civil uprising.

His father was a major in the Czar's Palace Guard and Dudin's family line contained the "blue blood" that the revolution was intent on stamping out.

Manchuria did not offer the asylum Dudin's father had sought. A few years after the family's move his father was called out mysteriously one night to help a friend and was never seen again.

Dudin believes firmly that his father was killed by Communists. Thus, for him, the 60th anniversary of the Soviet government takeover will be a day of sadness and reflection.

Dudin said the organization planned the erection of the monument to coincide with the Nov. 7 Communist anniversary to show that the Czar's murder is not forgotten.

He said most of the members of the organization are "aged, in their 70s and 80s." Some have vivid, bittersweet memories of their homeland. None will ever return.

Dudin came to the United States in 1956 and now is a citizen. He works for the U.S. Navy as an electrician.

The Revolution and its effect on his family continued to haunt him, however, and he has raised almost $20,000 to erect the new monument in the Serbian Cemetery.

He believes it is the only memorial to the Russian royal family in the world.

He said the organization plans pilgrimages to the monument six times a year on Holy Days and other anniversaries.

Attorney Eyes Legal Action

An attorney for a Mission Street property owner said he will explore the possibility of legal action against Daly City in connection with the proposed multi-purpose center land acquisition.

Attorney Wayne A. McFadden, who spoke Monday at a Daly City City Council meeting on behalf of Art and Adrianne Sofos, said he would consult with his clients about possible legal action against the city in regard to citizens' access to information.

The Sofos, who own about 20 percent of the 1.35 acres the city plans to acquire on Mission Street, have protested that they have plans for improvement of the property. It presently is leased to a car dealership.

McFadden said the City Council's failure to grant his request for a week's postponement and its decision not to require an environmental impact report on the site appear to be "serious violations of the Sofos' rights."

Sofos, one of three property owners of the land in question, did not speak on the matter.

McFadden charged that he has tried unsuccessfully to obtain information on traffic counts from the city for the past two weeks. He said City Attorney Albert Polonsky, who has been vacationing for two weeks, left instructions that information was not to be released during his absence.

McFadden said he "thoroughly respected the right of the city attorney to be present during the discussions with staff," but felt he had a staff commitment that a continuance would be granted.

He pointed out that he was informed two days ago that a continuance on the eminent domain decision would be granted only if the council voted to do so.

Polonsky said he was called while vacationing and did issue an order that staff personnel were not to be "interrogated" by McFadden in his absence. Polonsky was back in town Monday.

Polonsky said some materials on traffic projections presented to the council Monday were from staff memos and did not become public information until presented to the council at the meeting.

He advised the council to vote on a one-week delay, if it wished, but said the action would not guarantee that McFadden would be "entitled to any information he desires."

Polonsky reminded McFadden that he had been given at an Oct. 28 meeting "all the information that was deemed to be public records at that time."

The council voted unanimously to deny McFadden's request for a week's continuance. Councilman Victor Kyriakis told McFadden the hearing already had been continued

Time Lapse Critical To Station Plans

Daly City's attempts to get started on construction of the Mussel Rock Transfer Station received a serious setback Monday.

The Central Coast Regional Commission, meeting in Monterey, decided to put off a decision on an appeal to revoke Daly City's permit until Nov. 21.

The time lapse of a few weeks could be critical to Daly City, even if the appeal effort is unsuccessful.

The city is under the gun by another state agency, the Regional Water Quality Control Board, to stop dumping garbage at the Mussel Rock site by Feb. 15, 1978.

The transfer station would replace the dumping operation by providing a facility for transferring the garbage to long-distance haul vehicles for trucking to the Ox Mountain dump near Half Moon Bay.

Patricia Tatarian, a Daly City resident who lives in a neighborhood near the Coastside dumping site, has filed an application to have Daly City's construction permit revoked. The application is signed by several residents opposing the facility — which is to serve Daly City, the unincorporated area of Colma and Pacifica.

Mrs. Tatarian charges that the construction permit should be revoked because of improper notice of an earlier hearing, the city's failure to budget money for an adjacent Coastside park, and changes in siting the facility and grading that were not available for study by interested persons.

City Manager David Rowe of Daly City said all the points were discussed by city staffers at the Monday hearing, but the commission's executive director wanted time to study the matter.

The commission voted 7-3 to continue the matter until Nov. 21. Rowe pointed out that nine votes are needed to revoke a permit.

The city has filed plans with the water quality agency for a short-term contract with the San Francisco Transfer operation, if the Daly city transfer facility is not operational by Feb. 15.

The agency gave the city an extension on its order to stop dumping at the Coastside site. The order was scheduled to go into effect in August, but the city argued that delays in obtaining the Coastal commission permit had slowed progress.

The water quality agency ordered dumping to cease from a fear that landsliding there will cause ocean pollution.

"We thought we had clear sailing now," said Mayor Albert Teglia of the construction plans. "It's befuddling to the mind how to carry on the process of government."

City officials, who said the project is ready for bid, declined to speculate on the affect the delay would have on the Feb. 15 transfer station deadline.

Medevac Offers to Save Funds

San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Chairman John Ward announced today that Medevac, the county's emergency services contractor, has made an offer that may save taxpayers $30,000 to $50,000 this fiscal year.

Ward said Medevac has offered to waive a consumer price index provision which would have increased the contract to provide emergency services this year equal to the percentage increase in the cost of living.

A Personal Look

Our Right to Hear Plain English

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Attending some governmental meetings is like dropping into a foreign country for a few hours. The locals speak a strange version of English.

Imagine my shock when I arrived at my first school board meeting to find trustees wading through the annual budget and waxing eloquent on such topics as "EH," "ADA," "ECE," "Public Law 94-142" and "AB-65."

As the trustees wrapped up their five-hour discussion over figures on sheets that were not supplied to the audience, one board member complained bitterly that only two parents had bothered to attend the meeting.

He wondered why the public is so apathetic about the way its money is spent in schools. I could have told him why.

MANY governmental meetings are incomprehensible to newcomers. I don't object to the use of jargon. In the newspaper business, we have our own special language, too. But, I do object to the use of governmental jargon at public meetings. You would need a degree in city planning to understand some discussions — rife with terms such as "negative declaration," "geotechnical report" and "CEQA guidelines."

Judging by the lack of response from City Council members when some complex topics are brought up, I suspect they are as confused as the rest of us.

Back-to-basics language might bring enlightening responses — and help us keep closer track of our dollars.

Some officials have forgotten the words for the abbreviations they use. Ask them and they'll reply, "I can't recall. Call so-and-so." Worse are those who pretend to know and don't. One council member told me that "EIR" stands for "earth improvement report." As "everyone" knows, the initials are short for "environmental impact report."

It isn't asking much to insist that abbreviations be defined at least once during a public meeting.

IT'S MORE difficult to cure the advanced disease that I call "officialese." Victims commonly talk non-stop in vague language, avoiding straight answers.

Their writing drones on in convoluted sentences with polysyllabic words. For example, consider this passage from the county Area Agency on Aging's 1977-78 "Annual Area Plan":

"The emphasis, for this planning year, is on the improvement of existing linkage systems, on the demonstration of new program modes to create other means of linking seniors with needed services, and finally to begin to broaden the scope of the current service system."

Huh?

The author might have said simply, "We hope to improve the range and quality of services for seniors."

IN THE "Preliminary Draft Background Report" for Pacifica's 1978 General Plan, we read, "Effective development will require an imaginative, practical, and aggressive planning, development, and marketing program which will extend over a ten to twenty year period to attract entrepreneurs and selected types of businesses to utilize the City's locational and environmental opportunities."

In other words, it's going to take Pacifica a long time to attract new business.

Unfortunately, officialese threatens to become epidemic. There are examples all around us. For instance, that janitor in your office building probably is called a "sanitation engineer." Even the TV weatherman has a new title, "environmental reporter."

PERHAPS officials are fond of fuzzy language because it hides their true intentions. After all, it sounds better to ask taxpayers for $100 to attend a workshop titled, "Aspects and Implications of the Intergovernmental Process" than if the course were called, "Indulging Your Dreams of Higher Office."

Filling sentences with abbreviations and obscure terms is a way for older politicians to baffle the uninitiated. I've often heard a city manager crush a concerned citizen's argument with a few 10-cent terms.

The sad result of governmental jargon is that it makes our language less precise, less understandable and, thus, less interesting.

Those who make the effort to attend a meeting should be able to listen to plain English.

council. "It's been almost two hours of one-sidedness."

Pavellas referred to a staff presentation by Community Development Director Don Fleming, Associate Planner Fred DeJarlais, City Librarian Samuel Chandler and Traffic Engineer Keith Dellaway that lasted 1½ hours.

The staff, which had been criticized heavily by the Lincoln Park advocates for its Mission Street's central location to eastern Daly City.

Staff members said the Mission Street site, unlike Lincoln Park, can handle heavy traffic and a large building with easy access.

Residents speaking in favor of the Mission Street site included Frank Loretta of Hillsdale Homeowners, Anthony Aiello of the city Parks and Recreation Commission, Virgel Davis of the Daly City Senior Citizens and Sister Mary of Our Lady of Perpetual Help School.

Jane Powell, who spoke as a representative of the Recreation Commission, General Plan Citizens Committee and Jefferson Union High School Board of Trustees, took Pavellas and Pezzola to task, along with the Crocker Neighborhood Association head, Harold Calder.

"Aren't Mr. Pavellas, Pezzola and Calder the same men to vocalize their objection to the development of San Bruno Mountain because of the impact of more traffic on residential streets in the Crocker area? What do they think a multi-purpose center at Lincoln Park will do to that area . . . ?" Mrs Powell asked.

She said all people in Daly City should be given the opportunity to enjoy an accessible multi-purpose center.

Pavellas and Pezzola, who led a contingent that hammered away at the issue of citizens' access to staff information, gave a mini-presentation on the Lincoln Park site that included posters and drawings.

"We haven't got the resources of city staff, but it would only be right to allow the Lincoln Park Library Committee, with its little staff, to make a rebuttal," Pavellas said.

"We're not as right as staff," said Pezzola with sarcasm. "We're just two dumb gentlemen spending money out of our pockets."

They presented a sketch that showed a three-story; Spanish-style center that is in sharp contrast to a staff drawing of a plain, windowless four-level facility on the Lincoln Park site.

Pezzola said the library facility should be located in a neighborhood for maximum use, especially by young people. He emphasized commercial property would be displaced at a Mission Street site.

Also speaking in favor of a Lincoln Park location were Mission businessman Ray Charette, high school student Monica Emerson, Calder, John Mitchell, Joanne Casey and George Petropolis.

once and that the attorney could have made an independent traffic study.

The city must file eminent domain proceedings before Dec. 1 or chance losing a $360,000 allocation from Housing and Community Development Act funds for site acquisition and planning.

Proponents of the Lincoln Park site for the multi-purpose facility said they had tried without success to obtain similar information from the city.

"I ran into the same communications wall," said resident John Mitchell. "The information I wanted was simply a traffic count."

Joanne Casey, a resident of the Southern Hills area, said "Mr. Polonsky put a lid on the information. No one gets any information out of City Hall unless City Hall wants it to get out."

Conrad Pavellas, a Lincoln Park advocate who has criticized staff recommendations in general and particularly Polonsky's, said "Staff has done a marvelous job of selling the Mission Street location. For a while we thought they were giving us the whole story, but they never have."

Burlingame Girl Kidnapped, Freed

An 11-year-old Burlingame girl was kidnapped on her way to school Monday morning, taken to a mid-county apartment and sexually mistreated, then given a quarter and turned free on Old County Road in San Carlos, Burlingame police reported today.

Police are looking for a young man of "very pale" complexion, with brown hair and blue eyes, who speaks with a slight — possibly German — accent.

The victim said he wore white trousers and black shoes or boots, which were paint spattered. He wore a blue hat at times during her ordeal, she reported.

The girl was unharmed, but the man had threatened to use a knife or a gun on her, she said.

She told police that at one time she had seen the point of a knife, when he was threatening her.

The little victim was unable to pinpoint the apartment building where she was held, but described it as being built in a horseshoe shape around a swimming pool, with a brown or redwood picket fence.

She said she had been in the kidnapper's car only about five minutes after leaving the apartment, until he freed her on Old County Road in San Carlos at midmorning.

Her ordeal had started at about 8:30 a.m. when a young man drove up to the curb as she neared school and asked if she could read the address on an envelope.

When she neared the car, she said, she was grabbed and hauled into the vehicle.

Driver Was in Big Hurry

Maria Sonia Grimm, 30, 130 Cabrillo Way, San Bruno, apparently was just in too much of a hurry to make an appointment in Redwood City Monday morning, Highway Patrolman C.H. Nalley reported.

Nalley said he stopped Ms. Grimm on Interstate 280 at Bunker Hill Drive for speeding shortly after 10:30 a.m. He said she "was very polite and expressed concern she was going to be late for an appointment" as she signed a citation for speeding. When she got back in her car, however, Nalley said Ms. Grimm accelerated up to 100 miles per hour and made unsafe lane changes before turning off on Farm Hill Boulevard, where she ran a red light. He said she used both lanes of traffic, causing an oncoming pickup truck to run onto the shoulder to avoid a head-on collision.

Furlough For 221 At UAL

Airplanes are getting more reliable, need less maintenance, and fewer mechanics.

For this reason, United Airlines will "furlough" 208 mechanics and 13 storekeepers at its San Francisco International Airport maintenance center Nov. 18.

"We regret the necessity to furlough employees, and will conduct a concerted campaign among Bay Area employers in an attempt to find employment" for those laid off, said Richard Tabery, senior vice president of maintenance and operations.

Another United executive said the company especially regrets having to put people out of work just at the beginning of the holiday season.

"We tried to hold off on this, but you can only hold off so long," he said. "But the engines and the planes are not coming in for overhaul, and we don't have enough work to do to keep people busy.

"We finally had to drop the other shoe."

Company spokesmen said the airline has been doing repair and maintenance work for other airlines, and has been actively selling this service in order to keep workers busy. But even this source has fallen off.

Layoffs will be made "strictly on the basis of seniority," and according to provisions of union contracts with the Machinists Union and requirements of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission.

The average seniority of those being furloughed, the company said, will be about two years.

Furloughs will apply to several types of mechanics, from platers to machinists, and will be spread throughout the huge United shop. Furlough status means that these people will be put back to work, again on the basis of seniority, as jobs open up, the company said.

The 221 furloughed employees equal approximately 2.5 percent of the company's 8,300-person payroll, a spokesman said.

Peter Schrager

Schrager Heads GOP

Peter Schrager of Burlingame was elected chairman of the San Mateo County Republican Central Committee Thursday night.

Schrager, a meat company executive, succeeds Robert Naylor of Menlo Park, who resigned to campaign for the 20th Assembly District seat being abandoned by Dixon Arnett.

Schrager has been active in many county and statewide Republican political campaigns. He has represented the Second Supervisorial District on the Central Committee since 1966.

Cherry Duckling* with Spicy Almond Rice

1 duckling, quartered • ¾ teaspoon salt • 1 tablespoon cooking oil • 1 can (1 pound) pitted red sour cherries in water • ⅓ cup chopped onion • ¼ cup sugar • 1 tablespoon cornstarch • 1 cup uncooked rice • ⅓ cup slivered almonds • 2 tablespoons butter or margarine • 1 tablespoon grated orange rind • ½ teaspoon allspice

Sprinkle ½ teaspoon salt evenly over duckling quarters. Brown both sides of quarters in oil, turning as needed to brown evenly. Drain cherries; save juice. Pour ½ cup cherry juice and onion over duckling quarters. Cover; cook slowly until duckling is tender, about 1¼ hours. Remove duckling from pan. Drain off excess fat. Blend cherries and remaining juice, sugar and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; add to pan drippings. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Cook rice as directed on package. Melt butter or margarine; add almonds and brown lightly. Add cooked rice, orange rind and allspice; mix lightly. Serve duckling on rice and top with sauce. Makes 4 servings.

ITEMS FOR AUTUMN FAIRE

Jackie Whitesides, Ruth Parvis and Pat Cartwright have been working all year creating and handcrafting items for the annual St. Martin's Autumn Faire, scheduled Nov. 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Featured are unusual toys, pillows, quilts, place mats, Christmas ornaments, plants and homemade goodies from the pantry. A gourmet lunch will be served in the Garden Cafe, featuring Plant Chairman Helene Mori's horticultural work. A preview party will be Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m., in conjunction with a farewell party for the Rev. Timothy Rudolph and his family. Rev. Rudolph, who has served at St. Martin's since July 1970, will be moving to Southern California where he will be associate rector of St. Anne's in Oceanside. Nov. 20 will be the Reverend Rudolph's last services.

Television Shows Influence Policemen, Panel Believes

To what extent are the public and police officers influenced by programs like Starsky and Hutch which emphasize the drama and glamor of police work?

According to Daly City Police Chief David Hansen, the answer is "more than most law enforcement agencies would like."

Hansen, who shared his views at a Skyline College panel discussion with San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto and Mario Amoroso, deputy chief of support services for the San Francisco Police Department, blamed programs like Starsky and Hutch for defeating the Daly City Police Department's traffic safety program.

"Programs like Starsky and Hutch sell shooting and bad driving. Thiis message not only goes to the public but also to police officers," he said.

Hansen said his Department uses the Half Moon Bay Airport runway to instruct its officers in driving techniques, including high speed driving and how to negotiate turns.

"Every time a new officer joins our force or any time an officer has a collision he is put through the course," Hansen said.

"But, we are being defeated in our traffic program by a series like Starsky and Hutch.

"All of us are swayed somewhat by the medium (television), Hansen said, explaining that it is the business of television to sell. "And, it does that quite well," he added, "including selling bad driving techniques."

Hansen also blamed television police programs for creating an unrealistic image of police work.

"That just ain't the way it is," Hansen said. "We are not working with felonies all the time. But, people see it on television and believe that this is a large portion of police work."

In fact, Hansen said, most of Daly City police work is a combination of guarding (checking to see doors that are locked), enforcement (apprehending criminals), and service work (locating lost children and dogs).

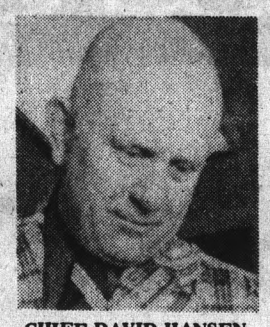
To change this false image for both the officer and the public, Hansen suggests getting policemen into the streets to talk with people. "The officers will realize all citizens are not thieves, liars, pimps or rapists, and, in return, citizens will have an opportunity to get acquainted with their policemen in a non-crisis situation."

Amoroso agreed with Hansen that "television distorts the real role of the police officer. "On television every case has to be exciting. I have never seen such . . .

"I used to work the Taraval District of San Francisco at night and would just hope someone would turn in a call. It was boredom.

Amoroso's remarks extended into the nighly television news coverage and newspaper reporting.

"The news media is still living under the Watergate influence. The media gets depressed when it cannot hang somebody," he said.



CHIEF DAVID HANSEN

"You never hear the positive side from the media; it's always the negative," he complained. "Every sociological failure ultimately falls on the police. Yet, when its reports' that complaints about the department are decreasing, you do not hear about that in the news."

Unlike the involvement portrayed by Starsky and Hutch, Amoroso said a police officer must remain detached to survive.

He recounted an incident involving a child abuse case. A young girl had been beaten with a metal dog leash. She would not discuss the matter with anyone because she had lost faith in people. However, when Amoroso appeared at the scene in full uniform, the child poured out her tale.

"That child gnawed at my guts for a long time," he said. "That was when I decided I had to draw back to maintain my sanity. Yet police officers get blamed for being impersonal. "To survive in the real world you have to," he said.

Even if police did have the means to conduct an image campaign, it would not be assured of success because people do not really know what they want, Amoroso explained. "They do not want pornography, but they want it. They do not want prostitution, but they want it."

However, Hongisto disagreed with Amoroso on who promotes the image of the police officer. Hongisto said the image problem stems from the social realities of life.

As long as the ghetto problem exists, the problem of chronic unemployment rages, the use of heroine continues, policemen will have to carry guns, the San Francisco sheriff said.

"Although I believe the media has an impact, the reason why a street fight or a riot develops will depend more on the political decisions that are made. Those kind of disturbances come from something far deeper than the media," he said.

The subject of capital punishment indicated a sharp division in the thinking of the three-man panel.

"Father Flannigan, founder of Boys' Town, was wrong when he said there are no bad boys," said Hansen. "There are those in society who refuse to be rehabilitated. We just do not need them."

"When the argument that capital punishment is applied only to poor persons, particularly young black males, the indictment is really against the judicial system of this country," Hansen said.

Holiday Boutique

On Nov. 19-20, Holy Angels Women's Guild will hold its annual Holiday Boutique in the Parish Hall, 107 San Pedro Road, Colma.

Offered this year will be a large variety of gift items, pin cushions, stuffed dolls, purses, crocheted goods and a very large assortment of Christmas ornaments and decorations.

Jewelry and cosmetics also will be available. Many cakes, pies, and cookies will be offered in the bake shop. Among the special prizes to be given away this year will be an afghan, shawl, plant, can opener and as a special prize, a large furnished Victorian doll house.

The Boutique will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. and after the 5:30 mass on Saturday and after all the masses on Sunday.

Chanukah Bazaar

Mrs. Renee Stehman, president of the Congregation B'nai Israel, and general chairman of the event, announces that the annual Chanukah Bazaar again will be held at the Westlake Recreation Hall on Lake Merced Boulevard, Nov. 20, noon to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Bernard Shain and her co-chairman, Mrs. Jonah Miller are in charge of the "Gift Shop" booth which will offer a wide variety of gifts for the Holiday season, including gift wrap papers, Jewish artifacts and jewelry.

There will be new and next to new merchandise available in another booth, as well as a white-elephant table.

A cake and "sweet table" will be among other booths, where one may purchase home-baked items for Holiday entertaining, at nominal prices. This booth will be chaired by Mrs. Leone R. Graubart and her daughter, Mrs. Sam Morris.

Art Exhibit, Auction

Congregation B'nai Israel Sisterhood will present a benefit art exhibition and auction Nov. 12 at the Synagogue, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

Wine and cheese will be served during the exhibition beginning a 7 p.m. The auction follows at 8. Donation per person is $1 and is tax deductible.

According to Renee Stehman, Sisterhood president, proceeds from the auction will be used for general needs of the Synagogue.

Nearly 200 original watercolors, oil paintings, signed and numbered lithographs and etchings have been selected from the International Collection of Collier Art Corporation. All works are authenticated and custom framed.

Mrs. Stehman is general chairman of the auction. Serving with her on various committees are: Roni Miller, Judy Kane, Phil Kane, Judy Altschuler, Debby Potak, Milt Potak, Mimi Strichard and Leone R. Graubart.

For details call 589-6607 or 994-2427.

B'nai Israel Services

Sabbath services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation of B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, on Friday Nov. 11 at 8:30 p.m.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy.

At the conclusion of Services, an Oneg Shabbat (social hour) will follow, hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood who contribute home-baked cakes and cookies.

Saturday Morning Services

Rabbi Ira Book of Congregation B'nai Israel announces that Saturday (Shabbat) morning services begin at 10:30 a.m. in the Temple Sanctuary, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

On Shabbat morning of Nov. 12, Rabbi Book will conduct services using the format of a Torah study and discussion session.

To be read will be Parsha: "Toledot." Young adults and Bar/Bat Mitzbah candidates participate in the Torah discussion and Torah reading.

At the conclusion of Shabbat (Saturday) services, a Kiddush will be served, which is prepared and served by mothers of the young adults who have participated in the service.

Alcoholism Week To Explore Woes

The Alcoholism Council of California, the statewide organization of the National Council on Alcoholism, has declared the week of November 14-20 an "Alcoholism Action Week."

Theme of the week, according to G.W. McCullough, ACC chairman, is "Alcoholism — A Family Disease."

Various Alcoholism Service Agencies in San Mateo County will hold special meetings and open their facilities to the public during the week.

According to Denise Baccala, San Mateo County coordinator of the National Council, "During the progression of the alcoholic's drinking career, family members make many subtle compensations and adjustments until their lives are dominated by reacting to the alcoholic's behavior."

Baccala explains that alcoholism as a family disease then causes "the impact of the disturbed family to fall on the extended family — the community at large. The responsibility for allowing the disease to progress thus must be shared by all those who will not learn how to confront the problem. To change public attitudes from ignorant indifference to making a difference is the purpose of Alcoholism Action Week."

The National council plans to highlight the focus on the family with a community forum, to be held at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church November 15 from 7-10 p.m. A panel of guest speakers will represent the extended family of the community; their presentations will cover the full range of the impact of alcoholism on that community.

A. J. Sullivan, coordinator of Special Health Services for Standard Oil of California, Inc. will speak on "The Alcoholic in the Work Force;" and Arlen Gregorio, state senator from Menlo Park, will discuss "Legislation as Crisis Intervention."

Other speakers will include Tom Campbell of the NCA County Committee, Myra Moblad, counselor at Sequoia Hospital, and representatives of Alanon and Alateen. A question period will follow.

Alcoholism Action Week has received the support of the California Congress of the PTA, the California Peace Officer's Association and the Northern Ecumenical Council. The Junior League of Palo Alto, Inc., has lent both its support and members of its Alcoholism Task Force, who will be at the forum along with representatives from county-wide Alcoholism Care Providers to supply information following the discussion.

Today's teachers are more fed up with their jobs than ever before, a National Education Association survey of its members shows.

As reported in the Christian Science Monitor, the teachers' gripe list includes:

- Unhappiness over a lack of support from administrators
- Low salaries
- Poor working conditions
- Apathetic parents
- Apathetic, troublesome students

Gilbert Highet writes that the biggest difficulty facing teachers is poverty. "He or she belongs to a badly paid profession. He or she cannot dress and live like a workman, but he or she is sometimes paid as little as an unskilled laborer." Thus, there are many "snarly, bad tempered teachers who were really nice people soured by years of anxiety and penny pinching."

Some teachers complain that they must provide counseling and character building along with their task of teaching the three R's and other subjects. Such teachers point to Ken Ernst's "The Games Students Play" (Celestial Arts, 1972, $6.95) as a picture of the students that teachers face day after day and in class after class.

Ernst describes some of the students that teachers meet as the uproar players who seek to upset the class with weapons as old as history, but as effective as modern technology. Among such weapons are knuckle cracking, gum popping, finger tapping, pen clicking, paper rattling and many other deadly actions that try the teachers' nerves.

Teachers today face more "chip on the shoulder" children than their predecessors knew. There are children whose lack of parental guidance makes them seek to be stupid or clownish or bumbling rather than assume the posture of normal children.

As a teacher from Minnesota wrote, more than one-fourth of her pupils, these days, come from single parent or divorced families. Many of them must be analyzed and counseled by the teachers before they can be taught such basic skills as reading, writing and arithmetic. Yet, teachers are trained to give instruction on subject matter, not to provide the psychologist's skills. And, they add that they are not evaluated by the counseling they provide for disturbed children.

Some teachers complain that they can be dismissed for exercising the constitutional rights granted to other people. Many schools, they insist, have rules against smoking, dating, speaking one's mind and participating in public matters.

Some of today's teachers complain that they face, more than at any other time in history, such horrible problems as prejudice of every color, violence, ripoffs, and heated rhetoric from an insensitive public. They say their students are part of a generation of "cheeky adolescent girls, sullen hangdog youths, cocky vulgar little comedians" all coming from a culture that permits the use of drugs at will.

Some teachers complain that even though they have organized, they are denied privileges granted to union members in nearly every profession and trade.

Some teachers shake their heads in disgust and repeat H. L. Menckin's words, "Only an ass would teach school." Meanwhile, the number of teachers' strikes multiplies.

AARP Chapter To Meet

The regular meeting of the Daly City American Association of Retired Persons will be at the Westlake Community Center Nov. 14.

Election of officers for the coming year will be on the agenda.

Preceding the meeting, from 9 to 11 a.m., the Commission on Aging, which is the Advisory Board to the Area Agency on Aging, will hold its monthly meeting in the same location.

At this time matters of interest to senior citizens will be discussed. The meeting is open to the public.

Dr. Bonnie Russell is chairwoman for the event.

Help Wanted

Several agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame, Daly City and Redwood City.

BAYSHORE BAPTIST CHURCH — A handyman is needed to help get the area ready for a day care center. The times can be arranged.

SAN MATEO COUNTY SOCIAL SERVICES — A tutor is needed for two high school students in basic Algebra and Geometry review. This will be short term as only review is needed.

ADULT PROTECTIVE SERVICES — A volunteer is still needed who knows deaf sign language and can be an interpreter. Another person is needed to walk with a blind man in Daly City as he needs outdoor exercise.

SUICIDE PREVENTION AND CRISIS CENTER — Interviews for volunteers interested in staffing the 14-hour crisis line are now being held for the next training session. Bright, sensitive and caring people, willing to spend four hours per week for at least one year are needed.

For details, call 992-0957 or 342-0801.

Family Planning Classes

Natural family planning classes begin at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City on Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m.

Couples interested in learning the Billings Ovulation Method of family planning can attend the course.

Classes are free and open to the public.

The ovulation method of family planning, developed by the husband-wife team of Australian physicians, John J. and Evelyn Billings, relies upon the observation of cervical mucus to determine fertility. Unlike the rhythm and temperature methods of family planning, the Billings Method gives advance warning of ovulations, insuring the detection of fertile and infertile periods.

For details call the Mary's Help Clinic at 992-4000, ext. 434.

The Regent

By JULIE SMITH
Commissioner of Publicity

A Parent, Teacher, Student Association (PTSA) meeting will be held in the faculty room at 7:30 p.m. tonight. All parents of Serramonte students are welcome and are urged to get involved with the PTSA.

Serramonte's Homecoming is November 18. The football game will be against Jefferson High School at 3. There will be a dance from 8 to 11 in Serramonte's cafeteria. The band that will be playing at the dance is "Common Pleasure."

Tickets are on sale at the cashier's office for $2 with a student body card and $2.50 without. The tickets at the door will be sold for $3.

Nominations for senior King and Queen and class Princess and Princesses will be held on November 4, 7, and 8 during fourth and fifth period lunch at the main office. Elections will be November 16. Winners will be announced at the dance.

The executive board is selling carnations for 25 cents each. You can buy your carnation at the cashier's office. The carnations will be delivered to the first period classes on Homecoming Day. Brighten your friend's day with a fresh carnation for only 25 cents. The profit will be going towards paying for the expense of the dance.

Serramonte's Drama Department is putting on a fall play called, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelling So Sad." The dates of the play are December 1 at noon for Serramonte students for $1, December 2-3 at 8 p.m. for $2. The play will take place in Serramonte's Little Theater.

Serramonte's Bowling Club is underway. Officers are President Kim Braganza, Vice President Linda Diane Lacy and Secretary Gloria Bombon. The club is divided into ten teams of four or five students each.

Team number one: Jojo Sundita, Janet Mendez, Rose Abuda, Jocilene Galvan and Jackie Duff.

Team number two: Lisa Yee, Mylene Biete, Sandy Scherer, Dennis Gonzalez and Jade de Campos.

Team number three: Jasmin Abuda, Kim Braganza, Greg Givara and Leo Villanueva.

Team number four: Imogene Mamoe, Kris Matthias, Robert Weber and Joan Hawkins.

Team number five: Jim Unsworth, Joe Cape, Bruce Darling and Herbert Cheng.

Team number six: Gloria Bombon, Brenda Macadaeg, Florence Pabros and Mylene Bombon.

Team number seven: Mary Obias, Rowena Cape, Wilfredo Garcia and Scot Weist.

Team number eight: Ronnie Conklin, Will De Guzman, Diane Lacy, Sante Portades and Albert Salvador.

Team number nine: Ron Garcia, Ken Hodel, Robert Smith, Daryl Limneos and Nelson Gonzalez.

Team number ten: Del Sundita, Albert Munar, Carmelita Olivian and Cheryl Escalamado.

The club meets every Monday at Westlake Bowl from 3:15 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.

TELL ME TRUE

Greg McDonald pleads with Nancy Morrison in a scene from the Pacifica Spindrift Players upcoming production of "Here Lies Jeremy Troy," a comedy by Jack Sharkey and directed by Robert Struckman. Performances will be at the Oddstad Center, 1050 Crespi Drive, Pacifica, at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 18, 19, 25, 26, Dec. 2, 3, and at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 20, 27 and Dec. 4. Price of admission is $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for seniors and students and $1 for children. Also in the cast are Bill Clyde, Kathy McIntyre and Gordon Sheridan.

Discount Centers Sought

Merchants are being sought for the Community Concern for Senior Citizens in San Mateo County.

The program, begun several years ago under the auspices of the American Association of University Women, is designed to benefit seniors living on fixed incomes. The senior is able to stretch his or her income by receiving reduced prices from participating merchants.

The merchant, in turn, receives free publicity and income from the purchases of seniors and their friends.

A county-wide brochure was published last spring listing merchants who are participating. The brochures are available at libraries, recreational centers, information and referral centers, senior centers and various churches.

Recent merchants who have joined the effort include Toyoto Center, Clip Joint, DeLucho's and Pauline's Beauty Shops, San Mateo Lock Works, Vacuum and Sewing Center and Brokerage/American, all in San Mateo. New Burlingame merchants participating are British Motors, Burlingame Imports, Glenn Adrews and Jack's Barber Shops, Wanda's Hair Styling, Tina's Beauty Salon, Village Valet, Your Cleaners, Preston's Candies and Ice Cream and Village Host.

For more information about the program, call 342-4531 or 343-6173.

Battery Failure

The four main causes of battery failure, reports the National Automobile Club, are failure to add water when necessary, prolonged undercharging or overcharging, insufficient power capacity for the motor vehicle, especially if many electrical accessories are used, and poor engine maintenance.

Letter to the Editor

Reader Reporting Complaint

To The Editor:

I am writing concerning two front-page articles on the North County edition of "The Post" of Oct. 26, "D.C. Man Stabbed" and "Youths Sought in Burglary." While I think it is highly desirable to keep the community informed of crimes against people, I think it is highly undesirable to report on crimes in the way that "The Post" consistently has reported. I am specifically referring to the fact that the youths' ethnic/racial identity is given top priority in your journalism. Both articles open with a mention of one group being "Latin", the other being "black juveniles."

If you choose to list such characteristics I suggest that you list them in the same place as you list other identifiable traits (height, etc.). Otherwise I suggest you dea openly with the racist perspective within your reporting. And while you're at it, perhaps you could clean up your sexist slurs as well (for instance calling women chairpeople "chairmen"!).

By the way, can I assume that your article on page eight of the same issue "Bruno Girl Eludes Police" is referring to a white girl? Everyone is white unless otherwise indicated?

NANCY LUBEROFF
Daly City

Editor's Note: The two stories referred to by the writer of the foregoing letter relate to persons sought for stabbing a Daly City man and two youths who were sought in connection with a burglary. None of them were apprehended at the time the stories were published.

It is, we believe, in the public interest to identify persons at large who are suspected of having committed crimes by as complete a description as possible and where relevant the race and color of such persons is also published.

On the other hand, when a person has been apprehended and is in custody it is our policy not to refer to race or color because in such instances matters of this kind are not relevant. Thus, the article on Page 8 of the issue referred to by the writer of the above letter which was written under the head "Bruno Girl Elludes Police" made no reference to her color or race because she had been apprehended. Furthermore, no other details were given because she was a juvenile and the police are not authorized under law to give out descriptive information with reference to apprehended juveniles.

We hope that the foregoing explanation will make it clear to the writer of the foregoing letter that we do not indulge in labeling people by race or ethnic origin in crime stories for any reason other than to assist police and the public at large in apprehending criminal suspects at large by giving as complete a description of such suspects as possible.

Center Vital to Area

By GEORGE GOLDING

Jim Richmond, the man who put the Millbrae Ramada Inn deal together after 20 years of promoting the property, says a convention center in the Burlingame area is vital.

Richmond, vice president of marketing and public relations at Ramada, also has been involved in promoting hotels and office buildings in Hawaii, Los Angeles and other places.

In his mind, a convention center of the type proposed for Burlingame, is essential for the economic life of Burlingame and Millbrae, and for other San Mateo County areas.

He says those hotel men who oppose the convention center object to competition from any source.

They do not seem to realize, he says, that business is best along Burlingame's "hotel row" because there is competition.

A convention center will not take business away from hotels, he says, but increase opportunity for them.

Admittedly, hotels in the area are operating at near capacity now, but there are already plans on the drawing boards for another 1,000 hotel rooms in the area south of the airport, according to Richmond.

A convention center that could bring in 2,000 people, he says, would tend to provide weekend business for hotels that now cater almost exclusively to mid-week business travelers.

"There are enough hotel rooms now available, or being built, to make the convention center successful," he says, "and the convention center is the key to the continued success of the whole area."

Richmond has never had a lack of faith in the future of this area. In the mid-50s, shortly after he arrived from the Midwest, he promoted and built the Richmond Square Shopping Center which has since been renamed Millbrae Square.

A former president of the Millbrae Chamber of Commerce, he promoted the now-Ramada Inn when it was built as the Thunderbird and successively operated as the Thunderbolt, Executive House and Airport Plaza.

During those years he also promoted plans for office buildings or hotels on the adjoining property at Millbrae Avenue and Bayshore Highway. So far, nothing has been built on the property, but there are those who are certain that something will be, and perhaps soon.

Richmond's comments on the convention center came in response to statements made last week by other area hotelmen who question the need for the convention center.

John Steen, executive director of the San Mateo County Convention and Visitors Bureau, agrees with some of Richmond's ideas.

"If we expect the hotel and tourist industry to grow in San Mateo, says Steen, "we will have to provide facilities for growth."

Laguna Salada Trustees, Teachers Disagree on Salary

Interpretation of a salary reopener clause was the point of contention between 50 Laguna Salada Union School District teachers and the board of trustees at a meeting last Thursday.

Arguing that state legislators had failed to give the district as much money as they'd anticipated, trustees voted to give the teachers a 3.4 percent pay boost, upgrading the minimum salary from $8,775 to $9,075 per year. The raise is retroactive to July 1.

Priscilla Day, chairman of the bargaining team for the teachers' union — the Laguna Salada Educational Association — said teachers disagreed with the way the district had interpreted the amount of money available for salaries.

"The point on which we disagree most is that we feel the board is taking items which rightfully should be taken from the contingency funds from new money which should go to salaries,' Ms. Day said.

"Our point of view is that the contingency fund is for miscalculations in enrollment and so forth. We don't feel it is reasonable to take out of the new money and then set up a contingency fund," she added.

According to the contract, the district is supposed to set up a 2 percent contingency fund as a cushion for unanticipated expenditures. The contract states that 60 percent of any new income resulting from action of the 1977 legislature is to be used to increase salaries.

Both the district and LSEA agree that $264,420 in new money had come into the district by the cut-off date of Oct. 15, when salary negotiations reopened. They also agreed that the 2 percent contingency requirement amounts to $160,363.

The teachers protest the fact that the district subtracted $55,013 from the new money before figuring the salary increase. The district countered that it cannot spend money it does not have.

The money the district subtracted is $34,672 in money lost because Laguna Salada no longer qualifies for federal funds and $20,341 lost because enrollment is 54 pupils less than expected.

"You're asking teachers to make up for losses in revenues," complained one teacher, who won a round of applause from the other teachers.

Dr. Lucille Foster, who sits on the district's negotiations team, said she believes the teachers had taken a "very creative approach" in interpreting the contract.

"This was a sincere attempt on the part of the district to give teachers more money as we receive new money," she said.

She said it is not possible, according to the contract, to reopen salary negotiations.

Teachers argued that a board representative who participated in reopener negotiations had said the board might have interpreted the contract more liberally and given their designee instructions to negotiate further.

Trustees flatly refused, but expressed regret that a higher pay boost was not possible.

"This board is extremely disappointed by what happened in Sacramento over the summer. We have to pay the price for the inability of our legislators to deal with reality," said Trustee Rudie Tretten.

Ms. Day said teachers probably will meet in a few days to discuss their dissatisfaction with the board's action. "At this point the board has taken a unilateral action — they made a decision without mutual agreement which violates the law under the Rodda Act," she observed.

The contract says that the reopener clause is "subject to the grievance mechanism only to insure compliance with procedures, not determination of compensation to be paid by the district."

Interpretation of that part of the contract could be another point of contention.

In other action, the board heard a report from Superintendent James Brien on pupil turnover in the district from June through September 1977.

Brien said a total of 612 had transferred to other schools, 68 of whom went to private schools. He pointed out that some of those were kindergartners going to first grade at private schools that do not have kindergartens.

Laguna Salada has about 1,900 children transfer every year, Brien reported. The district sustains a negative balance because only 1,500 to 1,600 students transfer into the district.

"It's interesting to me that we have such transient children," Brien remarked. He saw trends of people moving to small communities and said that most families are moving to other parts of the Bay Area.

Trustee Marilyn Mills said she thought the small percentage of Laguna Salada students transferring to private schools "shows no crisis in competency."

Upon Brien's recommendation, the trustees decided not to pay an annual fee of $232 to the Congress of Elected Officials, which is seeking to band elected officials together to save money via cooperative purchasing.

"My own feeling is that school districts are better off working with just other school districts," Brien said.

Mrs. Wills said she didn't understand why Laguna Salada's membership fee had been assessed at a rate three times higher than that of the City of Pacifica. "I contacted one person in the Congress and asked why. He said, 'When you find out, let me know'," she explained.

Mystery Skull

A skull dredged up from the ocean's bottom at 360 fathoms some 30 miles off the Coast last week is definitely humanoid and possibly human, coroner's investigators reported last Friday.

Coroner Paul B. Jensen said he will call experts from the department of anthropology at Stanford University to examine the skull, which was dredged up by the crew of the commercial fishing boat, "The Eagle," which sails out of Pillar Point Harbor.

Coroner's Investigator Steve Hortin said that the skull appears to him to be that of a human. He said that two horn-like protuberances from the cheek area could be the "zygomatic arch," the bone structure which connects the lower jaw to the skull.

Most of the skull under the eyes was missing, however.

Hortin said that there was some matter inside the skull that could have been brain tissue.

This is expected to be examined microscopically, according to Jensen.

So far, however, pathologists have refused to definitely identify the skull as from a human being.

Investigators declined to speculate how long the skull had been in the sea, pointing out that the cold water at a depth of over 2,000 feet acts as a preservative.

According to Jensen, Dr. Arthur Lack, county pathologist, believes the skull is probably human but will not classify it as definitely so. He said his aides will take the skull to Stanford.

FAMED NON-SMOKER

Dr. Linus Pauling holds up a "Kiss Me, I Don't Smoke" button to encourage smokers to give up the habit for at least a single day.

Pauling, Gregorio Lead Great American Smokeout

Nobel Prize Laureate Dr. Linus Pauling and State Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D–Menlo Park, will head "The Great American Smokeout," the American Cancer Society's national day to stop smoking on Thursday, Nov. 17, in San Mateo County.

The two leaders were selected for the honor because of their reputations as confirmed non-smokers. Gregorio will be chairman of the day's activities. Dr. Pauling will be honorary chairman, according to Mrs. Michael Ross, public education chairman for the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

"We're shooting for the stars this year by trying to reach approximately 65,000 smokers in the county," Mrs. Ross said. She said that would mean half the county's smokers would quit for the one day.

"We think there are enough people who want to give quitting a try that we can actually reach our goal," she said.

"Last year had what we thought was an ambitious goal of 20 percent of the smoking population and ended up with about 30 percent who said in a telephone poll that they would quit.

"We hope that people will realize that quitting smoking is a one day at a time effort, and if they can quit for Thursday, Nov. 17, perhaps they can quit for another day, another, and so on."

The society has already received far more orders for "Smokeout" pledge cards and "Kiss Me, I Don't Smoke" buttons than it can handle.

A rally will be held in San Francisco's Union Square at noon, Nov. 16, as a symbolic tribute to the day of non-smoking to follow.

San Mateo County residents who are interested in "Smokeout" activities may contact the San Mateo Unit of the Cancer Society at 1163 Chess Drive, Foster City.

Import Car Show To Run Nine Days

In keeping with the growing number of imported automobiles sold yearly in California, the 20th annual International Import Car Show in San Francisco this year has been lengthened to nine days, starting at noon Nov. 19.

The show, which formerly ran 6 days, will feature nearly 200 cars in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium and Brooks Hall, including several making their first appearances.

Among the newcomers will be the new Ford Fiestas, Chrysler Corp. Challenger, the newest Porsche, Saab's new turbo-charged car, Maserati, Honda and Mazda. There also are to be some 20 specialty machines shipped in especially for this show, Northern California's largest auto exposition. There will be 50 exhibits and special features in the two connected halls.

Show hours will be noon to 10 p.m. daily, including Thanksgiving Day.

Reduce the High Cost of Dying

The Neptune Society is the alternative to the more costly, involved mortuary-funeral-cemetery system. After 100 years, it is the answer to America's high cost of dying. The Neptune Society provides a simple, dignified cremation service with scattering on land or sea. There is no need for embalming, cosmetology, casket or graves. Most funerals with casket, grave and other related items will cost $2000 to $5000. The simple Neptune way is approx. $320 plus modest area transportation fees. The U.S. Government pays $255 cash toward death expenses. The thinking person will register today and become a card carrying member.

County Harbor District Girds Loins For Battle Against County's LAFCO

By VERN KROGH

Commissioners of the San Mateo County Harbor District held a council of war behind closed doors for more than an hour last Wednesday to plan strategy in their campaign against the county's Local Agency Formation Commission.

A 3-2 vote by the county commission last month to reduce the district's "sphere of influence to zero" is generally regarded as a preliminary to eventual dissolution of the district. The campaign against the district is being led by the Town of Atherton and follows unsuccessful attempts in the past to do away with the district.

Voices of the commissioners could be heard as they discussed battle plans in executive session at the Half Moon Bay Library for an hour and 15 minutes.

When the public and the press were re-admitted to the commission's meeting at 9:15 p.m., Charles J. Boerio, board chairman, appointed General Manager Ronald McClellan and Commissioner Jean J. Flocks to attend the next meeting of LAFCO in "an attempt to come to some terms as far as zero influence goes."

"To try to avoid litigation on both sides," Mrs. Flocks added, as a forewarning of a possible legal battle between the two county governmental agencies.

Commissioners hailed a "key exchange ceremony" between themselves and South San Francisco City Council scheduled for Nov. 11 as "a step of progress for the district and an expansion of its program."

"For many years all the past commissioners have worked for a countywide harbor program, and this is history-making for the district," Commissioner Frank Lee Jr. commented.

At the ceremonies, scheduled to start at 3:30 p.m. and lasting until 6 p.m., South San Francisco councilmen will present keys to the Oyster Point Marina to harbor commissioners, while the commissioners will present keys to the Pillar Point Harbor to the councilmen.

According to McClellan, 300 persons, including representatives of many veterans' organizations, have been invited.

In another action indicative of the district's enlarged program, commissioners approved the transfer of $500,000 in unappropriated funds for future construction at the Oyster Point Marina and $500,000 for construction at Pillar Point.

South San Francisco and the district recently signed a joint-powers agreement under which the harbor district will take over operation and maintenance of the marina at South San Francisco.

Commissioners questioned a $199 bill from Burlingame commercial photographer Norton Pearl for taking pictures of the signing of the agreement and for photographs of Pillar Point.

The bill was referred back to McClellan for additional information.

James M. Dennis, attorney for the district, said a suit by party boat operators Walter Jaffre and John Teixeira to stop the district in its attempt to charge them fees based on their gross revenues was taken off the court calendar Nov. 2. Dennis said the two had refused to divulge what their gross revenues are on the grounds it would be an invasion of their privacy.

Dennis said he will file a motion Nov. 16 in an attempt to force them to file the statements.

Commissioners agreed to put up for sale surplus property at Pillar Point Harbor, and discussed at length what should be done with a no longer used quarry in Princeton.

An agreement was approved with Local 3 of the Operating Engineers Union, which represents employees at Pillar Point, giving employees wage increases of 3 to 5 percent, based on the cost of living index of June, 1978. McClellan was instructed to start proceedings to bring employees under the State Retirement System.

A letter was received from the state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development expressing concern over newspaper accounts of the district's long-range program to spend $44.7 million to develop a series of harbors in the county using state funds.

Lee claimed the newspapers had taken "the whole thing out of context," and McClellan said that the state agency was alarmed because it had read newspaper accounts before it had had a chance to examine the actual plan. He said the matter has been cleared up now.

A proposal by Earl Nier to open a second fish cleaning concession at Pillar Point Harbor was referred to staff.

Man Dies While Off On Visit to Pacific

A Stockton man who went to Pacifica to see the ocean died last week as a result of injuries suffered when he was hit by a truck owned by TeleCommunications, Inc., a cable television company.

Henry Gabernowitz, 67, was struck by the truck at 3:08 p.m. Wednesday while crossing the street in a pedestrian crosswalk at the corner of Palmetto Avenue and Manor Drive, Pacifica police report.

He was rushed to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, where he died at 6:55 p.m.

When the man's wife was contacted by police, she said her husband had gone for a ride on BART to see the ocean. A BART ticket was found in Gabernowitz' pocket.

Patrolman Scrambles as Van Heads for Him on Freeway

A Highway Patrolman reported he had to scramble out of the way early Thursday as a van slammed into the rear of his patrol car parked on the shoulder of the Bayshore Freeway in Burlingame.

Officer Al Grant reported he and Officer Timothy R. Donnelly had stopped a car shortly before 2:30 a.m. and were talking with its driver.

Grant reported he looked up and saw a car coming down the shoulder of the freeway about 200 feet away, He said he yelled to Donnelly, "look out," and was running toward the fence when he heard a crash behind him.

SSF Approves Gellert Blvd. Plan

Seven steps toward completing a long-awaited commercial and business center, including a timetable for the city's $123,000 contribution, were approved by the South San Francisco City Council last Wednesday.

A former councilman, however, vehemently protested handing developer Tom Callan the gas tax funds to complete Gellert Boulevard, which will cut through the project.

"I don't understand how we in South San Francisco can give anyone anything," Patrick Ahern protested.

"We're doing a bad thing, gentlemen," he said. "If you do it here, you're going to have to do it for another developer."

The council has been working with Callan for several years in planning his proposed commercial center in Westborough. At Callan's request, the city agreed to contribute $123,000 for the completion of Gellert Boulevard.

The catch is that Callan must secure a national retail store with an annual sales volume of at least $10 million. K-Mart finally has been secured officially and is paying rent on the property it will use.

One of the resolutions approved states that the city will contribute the funds when K-Mart construction begins.

Ahern said the developer really wins in this deal. The city always will be responsible for street maintenance, he said. And, he added, while the city has cutback on many services to residents, it finds money to help a developer.

Public Services Director Frank Addiego objected to the implication that the $123,000 is "a giveway." He explained that Gellert Boulevard, when completed, will be a major arterial route of city and county importance.

"It's right to participate in this case," he said.

He also noted that the project's assessment district, which will involve the tenants, probably will be charged for street maintenance, a detail that will be resolved when the district is formed.

A public hearing to consider formation of the assessment district has been scheduled for Dec. 7.

$1 Billion ABAG Plan Tag

One billion dollars a year.

That will be the approximate cost for the Bay Area of the proposed environmental conservation plan ordered by the federal government, according to Dean Macris, associate executive director of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Macris was a member of a panel on the "208 Environmental Management Plan" at a meeting last week of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities in Millbrae.

The principal targets of the plan are water quality, water supply, solid waste disposal and air quality, he pointed out. ABAG has until July 1, 1979 to come up with an implementable plan. Firm cost figures are expected in December.

Councilman John Murray of San Mateo voiced a sentiment widely felt at the local level when he attacked federal intrusion into local planning.

"Somewhere a line must be drawn," he said. "Congress says, 'We wish clean air,' and turns it over to the bureaucracy whose orders have the effect of law. I believe it's time to say we will not go any further."

Weidner, as recently as last summer, was one of the most outspoken critics of the 208 plan. At that time he stated, "It will be the single most important thing in the extent of intrusion into local government affairs by federal, state and regional agencies yet, if our fears are borne out."

Then he hinted that San Mateo County cities should not even participate in the ABAG study.

Since then, however, Weidner, a representative to ABAG, has conceded that the local governments are stuck with the federal mandates and must make the best deal they can.

"The battle over environmental restrictions was fought in Congress," he said.

"The question now is how do we conduct ourselves under the conditions of peace. We must make decisions on the condition of life and urban affairs for years to come."

He added that the major social implications for cities included industry and commerce, parking lot controls, freeway monitoring and density.

Panelist John Tuteur, a Napa County supervisor and vice chairman of the 208 study, said, "It's time we took some control back and this is a chance to do it" through local participation in the study. "This is an opportunity to represent individual people at the closest level."

He added that, "we are the only planning agency in the entire nation that has bitten off air, water and solid waste all at once and tried to integrate them."

Councilman David Martin of Burlingame challenged the panel, stating that "there are differences in the theoretical and practical level" in environmental planning. He said that too stringent rules for clean air or clean water would stifle industry and seriously damage the economy of the area.

Tuteur replied that "the 208 plan has to speak to that."

Among the projected annual costs for the plan are:

- $230 million to construct facilities to provide sewerage service until the year 2000.
- $25 million to construct industrial wastewater treatment facilities for direct discharges.
- $48 million to limit sulfur to .25 percent of fuel content.
- $177 million to implement more stringent vehicle exhaust emission controls — an approximately 50 percent reduction below 1977 prescribed levels.

REHEARSING FOR WINTER BALLET

Ballet Company On Its Own

The Company, under the direction of Diane Roberts, is composed now of 45 girls between the ages of 7 and 18. But, according to Mrs. Marie Brizuela, president of the Company's board of directors, "we'd like to have some boys join us."

As a kick-off for the donor campaign, the Company has scheduled a champagne reception for Nov. 20, 2-4 p.m., at its new home, 1 Washington St., Daly City.

Invitations for this event, Mrs. Brizuela said, are being mailed to residents in San Mateo County.

"We really want to have people in the county join and support the company," she added. "We want to become a county-wide ballet company."

The Civic Ballet Company was formed in 1971. It has, until this year, been under the sponsorship of the City of Daly City and its Recreation Department. Now, however, it's on its own.

"We're really thankful to the city and the recreation department for all the support they have given us during the past six years. They have really helped us grow. They've been beautiful," she said.

Parents of the company members — and Mrs. Brizuela has her three daughters enrolled — are now busy fixing up the group's new home. In addition, parents have fund-raising activities to help defray the costs of costumes.

Each winter, the group performs a winter ballet. Scheduled next year for sometime in February, the Company will present, "The Wizard of Oz," "Swan Lake," and "Graduation Ball."

Incidentally, Mrs. Brizuela pointed out, "the Company practices at least three times a week, and the lessons are free. It gives young men and women the opportunity to take dancing lessons for free."

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Now that the children are back in school, it's time to start thinking about filling their lunch boxes with new and exciting taste treats. Since health foods are the rage, why not try a new, nutiritious approach to snacking?

Cookies are what kids devour fastest. But most of the popular ones are all taste and little nutrition. Our easy-to-bake cookie recipe, using Wheatena cereal, blend sweet tastes with the nutrients active children need. And the toasted whole wheat hot cereal enriches these cookies naturally with wheat germ and fiber — the important food element everybody is talking about.

So dress up your brood's back-to-school lunch boxes and do it smart and tasty.

RAISIN NUT COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine

1½ cups granulated sugar

3 eggs

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon baking soda

¼ teaspoon salt

½ teaspoon cinnamon

½ cup toasted whole wheat hot cereal, uncooked

¾ cup raisins

¾ cup finely chopped nuts

½ cup flaked coconut

Cream the one cup butter with the cup and half of sugar until light. Add three eggs, one at a time, blending well after each addition. Sift the three cups flour, one teaspoon baking soda, fourth teaspoon salt and half teaspoon cinnamon together, add ½ cup uncooked cereal.

Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture and blend well. Stir in the three-fourths cup each raisins and nuts and half cup coconut. Drop by teaspoonsful onto lightly greased cookie sheet.

Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven 13 to 15 minutes, or until tests done. Remove from oven and place on rack to cool.

Yields about six dozen.

GIRL SCOUTING

Girl Scout Calendars for 1978 continue on sale this week from local Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts. The first-time-ever locally produced calendar is done with brown ink on buff paper.

Selling for $1 each, the calendar depicts more than 50 activities divided into 12 themes of modern Girl Scouting. The year 1978 also marks the first full year use of the new program handbooks.

An unusual assortment of important ethnic dates, not often found in one calendar, makes this an outstanding, inexpensive and mailable gift.

Daly City Adult Girl Scouts are scheduled to gather at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 15 at Hope Lutheran Church to review fall plans for local girls.

Under the gavel of Association Chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Dale, service team members and special events will be on the agenda.

Nov. 19 is Good Turn Day, where for the first time in its history, Girl Scouts will join Boy Scouts with the distribution of donation bags for the Goodwill and the Salvation Army.

Specially produced bags for donations will be distributed by local Girl Scouts prior to Saturday and they will be picked up Nov. 19.

Pack Inspects Uniforms

"Discover America" was the theme of Pack 296 October pack night.

Webelos opened the meeting followed by uniform inspection. Jackie Woodman, Ted Howerton, Sue Peruzzi, Mary Beaudry, Gloria Segale, Nancy Salazar, Pam Thompson, Vana Luff, Jan Olson and Mary Pierotti conducted the uniform inspection and general appearance.

Camporee patches were given to Jerry Salazar, Eric Pierotti, Jason Peruzzi, Mike Yasko, Mark Cavallero, Todd Howerton and Ted Howerton. It was announced that Mark Woodman, Alan Pierotti and Mark La Grave received badges in the recent District Field Day. Pack 296 came in fifth place in the District and was awarded a ribbon.

James Guglielmoni, Vincent Lopiccolo, Michael Lynch, John Pearl, Mark Terron and Michael Caton were inducted into Pack 296 as Bobcats. The Wolf Ceremony was performed for Chris Beaudry, Joe Segale and Tim Block and the Bear Ceremony for Joe Terron and John Pearl. Gold arrows were presented to Chris Beaudry, Jo Segale, Tim Block, John Pearl and Joe Terron. Silver arrows were presented Billy Holt, John Pearl and Brian Vina.

It was announced that an Eagle Court of Honor will be held to honor Dean Olson. Dean will be presented with his Eagle Scout Award, the highest award a Boy Scout can receive.

One-year pins were presented to Kevin Fanucchi, Greg Pruitt, Rich Bullard, Rich Holt, David Benbow, Mark Woodman, Walter Valenzuela, Mike Sdaeo, Matt Teglia, Marc Teglia, Madonna Sdaeo and Rose Yasko. Two-year pins were presented to Steve Martin, Berry Vers, Brian Vina, Mark Cavallero, Mike McAuliffe, Mark La Grave and Mike Yasko. A three-year pin was awarded to Linda Reich.

Denners and assistant denners were introduced as follows: Den 1, Chris Beaudry and Joe Segale; Den 2, Kurt Howerton and Walter Valenzuela; Den 3, Brian Vina and Steve Martin; Owl Den, Jennifer Peruzzi and Zachary Vina; Webelos, Mark La Graveand Eric Pierotti.

Dean Olson, Todd Howerton and Carl Olson received den chief service stars while Rich Thompson and David Segale were inducted as den chiefs. Owl den chiefs are Jeff Luff and Dan Pierotti. Todd Howerton also serves as Webelo den chief. Rich Holt was inducted into Webelos and Larry Pearl was given his Webelo Leader Badge.

Doonans Home From A Tour of Europe

Lorianne Heath

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doonan, she is the president of the John Daly Senior Citizens, are home from a tour of Europe.

The Doonans traveled the polar route to London and then junketed to Holland, Paris and up the Rhine River before their return — just in time for Nan to oversee the annual seniors bazaar, an event which took place last week.

While the Doonans were traveling Mrs. Aileen Barkman presided over the senior's weekly gatherings and helped arrange for the future club gatherings, including the November birthday party slated tomorrow.

Any member of the group who will celebrate a November birthday will be a guest of honor at the luncheon tomorrow and will have a front row table for the fashion show being presented by Beeline Fashions, Inc.

Next week it will be turkey dinner time for the club and anyone who wants to enjoy that Thanksgiving party must purchase tickets this week, according to Servart Ojakian, publicity chairman.

MRS. ROZ MORINO, publicity chairman for the Daly City Dolphins Parents' Club, wants to remind all parents of young swimmers that the next tryouts for the swim team will be Nov. 15 at 5 p.m. in the Westmoor pool.

There is a considerable amount of excitement amid members of the team since the announcement was made that the Daly City group will host the American Athletic Union (AAU) sanctioned swim meet here in September of 1978.

MARY's Help Hospital Guild's Annual Boutique de Noel will be previewed with a champagne party on Thursday, Nov. 17.

Mrs. Helen Corbett is the boutique's chairman, and she reports that the selection of items to be offered this year is extensive and lovely.

Due to the construction program at the hospital, this year the guild will hold the bazaar in the cafeteria. Items will be sold at the preview and for the four days following.

THE GUILD is not the only group preparing for a holiday boutique.

On Nov. 19 and 20, the Holy Angels Women's Guild will hold its annual Holiday Boutique in the parish hall, 107 San Pedro Road in Colma.

Mrs. Diane Lionetti, publicity chairman for the guild, reports that many gift items are going to be featured during the sale. Everything from pin cushions, to cosmetics will be sold. Stuffed dolls, purses, crocheted goods, Christmas ornaments and decorations, jewelry and baked goods will be sold by members of the bazaaar committee between 1 and 4 p.m. and after the 5:30 p.m. Mass on Saturday and after all Masses on Sunday.

Among the special prizes available to the boutique goers this year will be an Afghan, a shawl, a lovely plant, a can opener and a large furnished Victorian Doll house.

ARE you interested in working with children? Friends outside is seeking persons to tutor youngsters between the ages of 7 and 12 years.

According to Mrs. Louise Enberg, all volunteers will be provided with a training session by Jo Pamment. For more information call the Friends Outside office, 863-5100.

FRIENDS of the late Virginia Letsinger will be pleased to know that a memorial fund is being established by the Friends of the Daly City Library.

Contributions to the fund may be sent to the Friends of the Library, marked for the Letsinger Memorial, and addressed to the Westlake Library, 275 Southgate Ave., Daly City.

Reed Cavorts At Finocchio's

RUSSELL REED, the celebrated "Ton of Fun" at world famed FINOCCHIO'S, continues to wow customers with his hilarious strip routine and energetic comedy performances filled with song and dance. Reed, the beautifully costumed EVE-ETTES in their outstanding routines (put together so cleverly by MRS. FINOCCHIO), and all the entertainers bring added pleasure to an evening at Finocchio's. Four shows nightly, except Mondays.....YOLANDA'S in South San Francisco will be serving a special holiday dinner on Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 24) from 1 to 9 p.m. for $3.85. Price includes soup, salad or pasta, two vegetables, roast turkey, French bread, and a glass of wine. Reservations are required (make them now is our advise). Ample free parking.....The beautiful CASTAWAY at Coyote Point has long been an ideal restaurant for holiday entertaining. Since the recent remodeling project here, General Manager JOE LOHMAN can make all the necessary arrangements for small or large groups. Reservations are now being taken for Thanksgiving Day dinner. A special menu will be featured.....NICK GUST'S three outstanding restaurants, NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER and CAPTAIN CHARLES, present a magnificent experience in dining out. Overlooking the Pacific Ocean at Rockaway Beach, the restaurants are only a few steps apart and offer dining variety, cocktails, and entertainment. Also located on the beachfront is Nick's SEA BREEZE MOTEL.

Casino Owner Visits Scotty Campbell's

MRS. ELIZABETH CHARTRAND of BARNEY'S CASINO and SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET, South Lake Tahoe, was a recent dinner guest at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant. While admiring the Halloween decorations, the handiwork of "RICH" TRAINOR, Mrs. Chartrand and her party "hit the jackpot" when ordering the prime ribs of beef dinner. The charming casino owner was very impressed with the cordial atmosphere of this splendid Redwood City dinner house.....Fans of Jacques Brel's music are flocking into LEHR'S CABARET THEATER at the GREENHOUSE in San Francisco to hear "The Best of Brel" performed by one of the best singers in the business — DENISE KILBOURNE. Her superb renditions of "Marieke," "Carousel," "Sons Of" and other Brel classics win long and thunderous applause from the overflow crowds.....ENRICO ROMANO reports that business has seldom been better at his ROMANO'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant in Rockaway Beach. "It's great," he says, "but it sure is hurting my golf game".....A new "Candlelight Special" has been introduced for the month of November in Frederic's at the HOLIDAY INN, South San Francisco. Featured dinner attraction is Butterflied Shrimp, and several tempting "extras" are included. Available every night of the week.

Vince's New Manager 40 Years' Experience

CHRISTOPHER TASSOS, new manager of VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, brings a wealth of restaurant experience to his new position, encompassing more than 40 years in the business. He has held the post of captain, maitre d', banquet manager, club manager and working chef in restaurants he has owned in New Jersey and in the Bay Area.....ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in San Francisco on Geary Street's "Theater Row," is noted for generous portions. But if you still have room for dessert after a sumptuous prime rib dinner, order the delicious English Trifle (brandied and sherried poundcake topped with fruit, crumbled macaroons, whipped cream and almonds).....PHIL LEHR recommends his famed Peach Beef Wellington for special occasion dinners at the STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, Taylor Street entrance. It is a broiled-to-perfection filet mignon topped with a California Cling peach half and baked in a flaky pastry shell.....Andy LeBourdias, the friendly bartender on duty in the VILLA HOTEL'S cocktail lounge the night of the Halloween party, said the evening was a "hallowing" success. A "bunny" won best costume in the ladies' division; a "witch" took first prize in the men's division. Winners received a bottle of champagne.

Public Invited to Open House Program

Saturday morning "open house" programs will continue through Nov. 26 at BAY MEADOWS, with the public invited free of charge to observe morning workouts and training races, view a film on racing's "triple crown," featuring the great Secretariat, and tour the barn area. Coffee, doughnuts and orange juice are served at no cost. Recent Saturdays have seen Boy Scout and Girl Scout, as well as other youth organizations, visit the vast racing complex and they have found their "field trips" to be both entertaining and educational. Also proving increasingly popular is the use of the infield "Central Park" area on Saturdays for family and picnic groups. The regular $2.25 charge to the grandstand is also good for the infield, which is reached by a tunnel at the North end of the premises. All types of food and drink are available, along with closed circuit television and, naturally, a few betting windows for those desiring to back the chances of their favorite horse. There is no admission charge to the track for children under 16, but the children are not allowed to wager.

Nov. 18 Deadline For Tanforan Park Coupon

Friday, Nov. 18, is the last day that the 50 cent "discount coupons" will be honored at TANFORAN PARK'S GARDEN RESTAURANTS. A NEW TREE

Inspecting the latest phase of the Daly City street tree planting program are Mayor Al Teglia, Councilman Victor Kyriakis and Director of Recreation Parks and Maintenance, Charles E. Vincent. The type of tree shown, which has been planted on Price Street, between Hillside and Mission streets, is the Metrosideros excelsa, more commonly known as the New Zealand Christmas tree. The tree derives its name because its dark scarlet flowers bloom in December in New Zealand.

PROMOTED

Marine Lance Corporal James G. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Adams, 272 Templeton Ave., Daly City, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the First Force Service Support Group, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

A 1976 graduate of Serramonte High School, he joined the Marine Corps in July 1976.

2 Robbers Net Cash In SSF

Two robbers netted about $1,500 in cash in South San Francisco over the weekend, report police.

As he was attempting to start his car to make a night deposit at 12:40 a.m. Sunday, the stock boy at Al's Liquors, 479 Grand Ave., was robbed of $800 to $1,000 in cash carried in a bank deposit bag.

South San Francisco police said the stock boy, Mark Joseph Zanobini, 17, of Daly City, was confronted by a nervous man wearing a maroon ski mask who jumped into the seat beside him, simulated a gun and said, "Your money or your life."

He was described as a white male, 20, weighing about 190 pounds and wearing a blue sweatshirt and blue jeans.

Le Pacini

If you will indulge me in more baseball talk, I am tired of hearing how the Yankees "bought" a pennant.

Tom Yawkey proved with the Red Sox for years that you don't "buy" pennants (and so did Gene Autry this past season) — not, at least, with money. To build a world champion your negotiable securities are brains, talent and shrewdness, and in this case of the Yankees, that spells out Gabe Paul, not George Steinbrenner, known in other circles as M-O-N-E-Y.

Sure, the Yankees out-right bought Catfish Hunter, Reggie Jackson and Don Gullet, and put up a lot of cash for Mike Torrez and Bucky Dent. But until the World Series, when Gullet proved a vital factor, only Jackson of the outright purchases made a solid contribution to the ultimate Yankee success.

AS FOR DENT, yes, the Yankees did lay out an estimated $200,000 for him, but they also had to give up promising young pitchers in Bob Polinsky and Dewey Hoyt, and Oscar Gamble, who hit 32 homers for the White Sox as a platoon player. See Torrez below, under WILLIE RANDOLPH.

But now examine the rest of the Yankee roster. Of the key players, only Ron Guidry, Thurman Munson and Roy White were home-grown. The others were all traded for in the last three to five years. I call it perhaps the most brilliant short trading period in baseball history. What do you think?

LOU PINIELLA — Got for pitcher Lindy McDaniel (long since gone from majors) from K.C. in 1974.

MICKEY RIVERS AND ED FIGUEROA — For Bobby Bonds from Angels, 1975.

CRIS CHAMBLISS AND DICK TIDROW — From Cleveland in 1974, (along with relief pitcher Cecil Upshaw), all for pitchers Fritz Peterson, Steve Kline, Fred Beene and Tom Busky . . . and whatever happened to any of them?

WILLIE RANDOLPH — In 1975 gave Pirates Doc Medich, and collected Willie, along with pitchers Ken Brett and Dock Ellis. They then gave outfielder Rich Coggins (now dearly departed) and Brett, who has admittedly had some success, to White Sox for designated hitter Carlos May, who gave Yankees some good service. Along with Ellis, who hasn't done a lot since, they gave Oakland two players who never would have made their roster — infielder Marty Perez and outfielder Larry Murray for Torrez.

PAUL BLAIR — Gave Baltimore sore-kneed (and now going on free agent market after being of no help at all) outfielder Elliott Maddox and Rich (Who?) Bladt.

FRED STANLEY — Their regular shortstop last year, was taken from San Diego in 1973 for minor league catcher George Pena.

CRAIG NETTLES — Got Nettles and catcher (Jerry Moses in 1973 from Cleveland for catcher-first baseman John Ellis (who has had a minimum of success), infielder Jerry Kenney (who was in minors soon after), and outfielders Charlie Spikes and Rusty Torres, both of whom are now marginal players.

SPARKY LYLE — Believe it or not, they got the Cy Young winner (remember my predication two columns ago?) from Boston in 1972 for Danny Cater and Mario Guerrero.

While I think Lyle deserved the A. L. Cy Young Award, I must admit that the Sporting News' choice of Nolan Ryan as A. L. Pitcher of the Year also made sense.

Yes, Ryan had an apparently erratic 19-16 record, but consider the following other stats: 2.77 ERA (third among A.L. starters);led the majors in complete games (22) and strikeouts (341); after the All-Star break, the Angels scored just 39 runs for him; he became the first pitcher in history to have five 300-plus strikeout seasons; recorded his fourth 19 strikeout game; the league hit only .190 against him; struck out 10 or more batters 20 times, extending his major league record; moved ahead of Sandy Koufax into 15th on all-time strikeout list; his 341 strikeouts were sixth on the single-season list, with Ryan also holding spots number 1, 3, 7 and 8.

ON THE OTHER hand, what was wrong with Phil Niekro as an N.L. candidate for the Cy Young? He didn't get a point in the voting, but despite playing for one of baseball's most pitiful teams, which forced him into a 16-20 season, he: led the N.L. in complete games (20) and was fourth in the majors; led the majors in innings pitched (330) and the N.L. in strikeouts (262), behind only Ryan.

Still on pitching and the Sporting News, I resent their picking San Diego southpaw Bob Owchinko as N.L. Rookie Pitcher of the year, over our own southpaw Bob Knepper. Compare figures, and you'll find no comparison. Owchinko had a 9-12 record, a 4.45 ERA, completed three of 30 games, gave up 191 hits in 170 innings, had two shutouts, gave up 67 walks and struck out 101. Knepper had an 11-9, a 3.36 ERA, completed six of 27, gave up 151 hits in 166 innings, struck out 100 and walked 72, and also pitched two shutouts.

SURPRISE GIANTS' statistics of 1977. Gary Thomasson was the team's leading base stealer (16), and Bill Madlock led the team in more offensive categories (three) than anyone: batting average (.302), hits (161) and doubles (28).

Also surprising, not to us fans, but possibly to the players involved. Who possibly moaned more about playing time than any other players? Right. Darrell Evans, Thomasson and Derrel Thomas. And who were the top three players on the Giants' roster in terms of games played? Right. Thomas (148), Thomasson (145) and Evans (144).

A statistic not surprising at all. The Giants had the lowest fielding average in the major leagues. But, consolation, the A's made more errors.

One last baseball stat. Houston had the third best team E.R.A. in the majors behind the Dodgers and Kansas City. Which makes yours truly feel like an expert, because before the season began I wrote here that Houston could be tough because they had possibly the best group of young arms in the big leagues.

NOW FOR some football stats, and did you know that Jim Plunkett is tied for second in the National Conference with Jim Hart behind Roger Staubach in yards gained per pass attempt?

And an interesting, nay, surprising statistic from 1976. In the new NFL statistic of total "punting efficiency" (which takes in not just length of punt but also accounts for "hang time" and spot kicking by subtracting returns made on kicks and 20 yards for each touchback), the 49ers' Tom Wittum placed fourth behind John James, David Lee and Herman Weaver. Which means he was ahead of two legendary NFL punters — Jerrel Wilson and the Raiders' Ray Guy, who were sixth and seventh, respectively.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Not that I have anything against Jim Lange, but his inclusion on the 49er radio broadcast team as color man HAS coincided with the 49er collapse. Never thought I'd be saying this, but . . . BRING BACK SOLTAU . . .

LOCAL TAG-END — Ken Smith, of the famous beardless Smith Brothers from Jefferson High School, has returned to his alma mater. Unfortunately for Jeff coaches, Ken has run out of eligibility, so he won't be able to make all-county in baseball, football and basketball as he once did. He's back teaching social studies and coaching lightweight basektball and the girls' junior varsity volleyball team.

Last-Minute Score Nets Cougars 21-20 Win

'Cardiac Kids' Do It Again

By JOHN MURPHY

The "Cardiac Kids" performed their weekly football miracle once again Friday. Undefeated host Half Moon Bay edged Serramonte 21-20 in North Peninsula League action.

With the score tied 14-14 mid-way through the fourth quarter, Serramonte initiated a time-consuming drive from its own 34-yard line. The Regents moved all the way down to the Cougar 13 but then stalled.

On fourth and five Serramonte sent in its placekicking unit. But the Regents faked the field goal kick, holder Lou Tinsley rolled left and found fullback Carlos Duharte open near the goal line. Duharte shook off a tackler and sped into the end zone.

That gave Serramonte a 20-14 lead with 1:43 left (the Regents' two point PAT pass attempt was knocked down by HMB's John Galvin.)

No sweat. The Cougars have been there before.

Running back Nick Moreno returned the ensuing kickoff 20 yards to the HMB 36.

After an incomplete pass, Cougar quarterback Scott Mathews was hit as he threw but managed a wobbly completion to the ever-present Moreno for 17 yards.

On the next play Mathews attempted to find either Galvin or Barry Short on a crossing pattern. Instead, Mathews, who had rolled out to his right, spotted Moreno open deep and fired a 47-yard touchdown pass to knot the score once again with 1:02 left.

The Cougars, who are now 8-0 overall, have won seven contests in the final minutes.

"They're just winners, that's all," said coach Jerry Murphy. "They just don't give up. Most other teams would have folded in the same situation.

"They didn't panic out there. These kids seem to have some kind of inner spirit amongst themselves. I don't know how to describe it."

No matter how you describe them, one thing is for sure. The Cougars, in sole possession of first place in the NPL with a 5-0 record.

One thing Cougar fans would like to forget, however, is the way Half Moon Bay performed in the first half. The Cougars fumbled on their second play from scrimmage to set up the game's first score.

Serramonte took over on the HMB 32 and kept moving with the aid of two fourth-down completions by Tinsley. Duharte capped the drive with a one-yard plunge to put Serramonte ahead 7-0.

The Cougars bounced right back on their next possession as Moreno culminated an 11-play, 59-yard drive with a one-yard run to even the score. Later, in the second period, Serramonte drove to the Cougar one foot line, but HMB held on fourth down and it remained 7-7 at the half.

Serramonte shocked the Cougars on the first play from scrimmage in the second half as Duharte broke through left tackle, cut outside and rambled 62 yards to paydirt to put the Regents on top by seven once again.

However, after a few changes of possession, Serramonte fumbled on its own 24 and four plays later Cougar fullback Brian Knapp took off on a power sweep from the Regent 17, ran over one tackler and scored, making it 14-all.

El Camino-Jefferson

Jefferson blanked visiting El Camino 10-0 to register its first-ever win over the Colts.

It was Jeff's rapidly improving defense which keyed the win.

Meanwhile, Jeff QB Bob Figueroa was having a standout day, completing eight of 13 passes for 154 yards. Rich Rogers led Jeff's ground-gainers with 43 yards on 10 carries. His yard plunge capped the Tribe's seven-play, 44-yard first quarter touchdown drive.

Placekicker Fred Proano added a 35-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to give Jeff some breathing room.

Westmoor-Terra Nova

Terra Nova routed the visiting Rams 41-14 Friday night to remain in the race for the NPL title.

Terra Nova scored three touchdowns in the second period to take a 20-0 halftime lead and then padded the margin to 41-2 in the second half before Westmoor scored two fourth quarter TDs to close out the scoring.

The Tigers outgained Westmoor 339 to 213 and also took advantage of two Ram fumbles inside the 10 yard line (which they quickly converted into scores).

TN halfback Ed Gallagher picked up 105 yards on 11 carries and had scoring runs of one and 57 yards.

Quarterback Mike Diaz ran for two touchdowns and passed for another to pace the Tiger offense.

Westmoor QB Tony Limutau had a 59-yard TD run and a 24-yard scoring toss to tight end Chris Toohey.

Tie Knocks Dons From Lead

By DAN BERTELLOTTI

With quarterback Jeff Gradinger out with an injury, Aragon High's offense figured to suffer against host Capuchino Friday.

But Gradinger's spot was capably filled by senior Dave Glasson, who directed the Dons to three scores and 21 points.

However, the Aragon defense was uncharacteristically generous. Capuchino moved the ball well all day, especially on the ground (customarily the Don strong point), and settled for a 21-21 tie.

The tie drops Aragon into second place in the Mid-Peninsula League race at 4-0-1, behind Hillsdale at 4-0.

The tie doesn't really alter the race. The winner of the Hillsdale-Aragon game November 18 will be the MPL winner and represent the league in the Central Coast Section playoffs.

Aragon coach Dick Breaux didn't know until Wednesday that Gradinger wouldn't be able to play because of a deep shoulder bruise. Gradinger's status for the Hillsdale game (Aragon draws a bye next week) isn't known yet.

Breaux had just two days to restructure the offense for Glasson, whose strengths are different from Gradinger's. Glasson did a creditable job, completing nine of 20 passes for 71 yards.

Capuchino had scored just 47 points in six previous games, and the Mustang running game had been anemic.

In Friday's turnaround, Cap ran for 121 yards, a season best — topping the 109 Cap had gained in its first three MPL games combined. Quarterback Tom Fell also riddled the Don secondary (minus the reliable Gradinger at cornerback) for 119 yards on 14 of 18.

After Aragon had taken the second half kickoff 72 yards in 13 plays to take a 14-7 lead, Cap went back to work.

The Mustangs took advantage of a roughing the passer call on fourth down and moved 63 yards in 12 plays. Mike Schmidt scooted 10 yards off right tackle on a trap play for the score.

Fell pitched out to Schmidt, who just did dive in the left corner of the end zone for a two-point conversion, putting Cap ahead 15-14.

Things looked even better for the Mustangs when they held Aragon on three plays after the kickoff. After a short punt, Cap moved down to the Don 22.

But on third down and 21 Fell was blindsided by Don linebacker Terry Salzer and the ball popped into the air. Aragon tackle Ralph Gault caught it and headed for the Cap goal with nobody in front of him.

Cap center Bob Velez just tripped up Gault by the ankle on the Mustang 15. Glasson completed a pass to tight end Dave Gaines on first down, but Gaines came down out of the end zone. The drive stalled and Aragon missed a 34-yard field goal wide left with 6:28 left in the game.

On first down Cap botched up a handoff and Salzer scooped it up and got to the Mustang one. Larry Franquez blasted in from there to make it 21-15 Aragon with 5:48 left.

Cap wasn't finished. Using the clock well, Fell moved his team steadily downfield, mixing his passes to tight end Greg Ley with Schmidt runs. Schmidt netted 34 yards on the drive and Fell to Ley accounted for 31 more.

Schmidt scored the tying touchdown with 1:12 left, diving in from four yards out. But Cap missed the conversion kick, leaving the contest tied.

Aragon still had a chance. But even aided by a facemask penalty against Cap, the Dons couldn't get any closer than the Cap 38 when time ran out.

Except for the blitz by Salzer which caused the fumble, Fell had all day to throw. He found Ley six times for 71 yards and one score.

"You either drop back a bunch of guys and try to stop Ley or you send a bunch of guys and try to get to Fell," reasoned Breaux.

Schmidt ran for 93 yards on 21 carries and scored 15 points total.

Larry Franquez was the offensive standout for Aragon with 66 yards rushing on 14 carries. The Dons had allowed just 40 points in seven games before Cap dented them for 21.

Aragon totaled just 174 yards, but it was partly because of the Dons' special teams. Aragon rolled up 243 return yards, including an 84-yard kickoff return by Sam Vaka and a 52-yard punt return by Gaines.

Crestmoor Bows To Burlingame

Burlingame High football coach Bill Wilkins must be wondering when the real Panthers are going to stand up.

The Panthers looked like world-beaters in the first half of Friday night's game with visiting Crestmoor, blowing to a 20-0 lead.

But in the second half, Burlingame was erratic at best and survived with a 20-8 win over the winless Falcons.

Burlingame rolled up 245 first-half yards, including 143 through the air on the arm of new quarterback Perry Falk. Falk was making his first Mid-Peninsula League appearance after suffering an injury in the preseason.

However, in the latter half the Panthers fumbled and stumbled their way to just 74 more yards. Most of the half was played in Burlingme territory and the Panthers found themselves in a game.

Late in the third period Crestmoor's Bill Raffin pounced on a Panther fumble on the Burlingame 15. A five-yard penalty moved it to the 10. Anthony James scored two plays later from the four with 2:50 left. Raffin caught a conversion pass from Ted Herrera to make it 20-8 Burlingame.

Crestmoor got the ball back soon after. On fourth down the Panther punter ran with a bad snap, but was downed on Burlingame's 28.

The Panther defense rose up and made itself known. Defensive back Jeff Koenig intercepted a Herrera pass to halt the threat. Three more Falcon possessions in Burlingame territory were unsuccessful.

Burlingame's defense, led by Tosoni Lauvulo, harassed Herrera and company all night long, allowing minus two yards rushing and 33 overall.

Falk's MPL debut was very impressive. He completed 15 of 25 passes for 190 yards and no interceptions.

He threw three first half TD passes, to Mike Garcia (20 yards), to Koenig (18 yards) and to Kevin O'Brien (10 yards). Ray Rover topped the Panther rushers with 52 yards on just four carries.

Burlingame is now 2-2 in the MPL and 2-5 overall.

Pads Blank Crusaders

By PAUL SALVONI

SAN FRANCISCO — Serra High's football team took a huge step toward a .500 West Catholic Athletic League finish by staving off host Riordan 8-0 at Kezar Stadium Friday.

Riordan threatened to score in the final two and a half minutes when the Crusaders drove 74 yards to the Serra 13 yard line. But a pass thrown into the right corner of the end zone by Riordan quarterback Ben Parodi fell incomplete as time expired.

Riordan had driven to the Serra 11 midway through the third quarter, but Serra defensive lineman John Eberle recovered a Crusader fumble to keep the Pads' lead safe.

Serra quarterback Mark Geenen enjoyed his finest day of the season, hitting 13 of 21 passes for 155 yards. Running back Greg Funk, in addition to gaining 90 yards on 17 bruising carries, latched onto four of Funk's aerials for 52 yards.

The Padres scored on their first possession. Geenen, hit just after he'd released the ball, connected with back Dean Caserza for a two-yard touchdown pass on third and goal to go. Geenen had connected with tight end Rich McGlennon for a 20-yard pickup and with Funk for a 23-yard gain during the nine-play, 78-yard march. Serra gained 71 of the 78 yards through the air.

Holder Bob Vinal ran with the ball as Serra tried a fake on the conversion, threw on the run near the right sideline and found Don McNab in the end zone for an 8-0 lead.

Parodi hit 12 of 24 passes for Riordan, but interceptions by defensive back Fred Feil and middle linebacker McNab thwarted two Crusader drives. Riordan fullback Ken Joseph carried 26 times, grinding out some tough inside yardage, but Serra's defense never let the Crusaders get within the Padre 11.

Serra is now 2-2 in WCAC play; Riordan is 2-3.

In a stunning upset, WCAL leader Bellarmine, which had been unbeaten and had scored more than 40 points a game until Friday, was shut out by St. Ignatius, 8-0.

Swim Tryouts Nov. 15

The correct date for the tryouts for new members of the Daly City Dolphin Swim Team is Nov. 15 at 5 p.m. at the Westmoor Pool, Daly City, according to swim coach Chip Zimmerman.

To qualify for the club, a local youngster need only swim two laps of the pool, using any stroke.

There is no minimum age requirement for participation. Practice sessions are 5-7 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Bridge Players Wanted

Bridge players can sign up now for the eighth annual Bridge Marathon, sponsored by the women of St. Martin's Church, Daly City.

A series of five games will be played, one per month, January through May. Games are played in the contestants' homes at a convenient time and date. A small fee is charged and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Closing date for signups is Dec. 5.

Alcohol Panel Discussion

A panel discussion on the problems of alcohol will be held at the Pacifica Library, Nov. 16 from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

The program, under the sponsorship of the National Council of Alcoholism, is being held in connection with Alcohol Action Week.

The discussion will be on "Alcoholism: A Family Disease." Participants in the discussion will be Paulette Bellis of Pyramid Alternatives who will talk on adult, youth and family treatment. Elinor Colburn will represent Little House and discuss the problems of seniors. Labor and management consultant George Mora will discuss occupational problems, and Dick L. will represent Alcoholics Anonymous.

Breastfeeding Meetings

The Pacifica-Half Moon Bay La Leche League will hold a series of meetings on breast feeding beginning this month.

Meetings will be on Tuesday mornings and Thursday evenings. The Tuesday sessions, which begin Nov. 15, will be in the home of Anne Garrett, 1084 Skyline Drive, Daly City. Thursday sessions, which begin Nov. 10, will be at the home of Enid Ansgarius, 1436 Adobe Drive, Pacifica.

The annual Elks Hoop Shoot will be at Daly City school and park sites Nov. 7-22. This is a free throw-shooting contest that will determine playground champions.

The first, second and third place finishers in the playground competition will compete against other Daly City playground will then move on to areawide competition.

This competition is for boys and girls in age groups 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13. Boys and girls will compete in separate divisions with the result that there will be six first place finalists from Daly City. Rules and regulations can be obtained at school playgrounds or from park recreation leaders.

Importance of Self-Esteem

On NOv. 19 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Building 2, Room 2306, at Skyline College, Madelyn Burley-Allen advanced special fields member, International Transactional Anlaysis Association will discuss the importance of self-esteem.

For details call or write Skyline College Community Services Office, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno, 94066 or phone 355-7000, ext. 338.

Libraries Slate Programs

Both Sanchez and Pacifica Libraries in Pacifica are scheduling special programs for Children's Book Week.

Sanchez Library will hold an open house for parents and interested adults from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Nov. 17. A presentation of library resources and an informal discussion with Reference Librarian, Freida Batten, and Children's Librarian, Ann Golden will be held.

Pacifica Library will hold a paper-making program and film on Nov. 18 at 3:30 p.m.

In the paper-making program children will work with a liquid pulp and make their own patches of paper. A film will be shown while the paper is drying.

Junior Teen Sports Nights

Four Pacifica schools are conducting junior teen sports nights for boys and girls in the seventh and eighth grades.

Sports nights are Wednesdays at Linda Mar, San Andreas and Westview schools, while Orega School holds its night on Tuesdays.

Activities, including floor hockey, free-play basketball and volleyball, run from 7-10.

Pacifica's Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department is sponsoring the sixth annual Turkey Trot cross country run. The event will begin 9 a.m. Nov. 12 from the Terra Nova High School track to Oddstad School's parking lot.

For details, call 355-4151, ext. 33.

The recreation department also is sponsoring a Nov. 26 adult trip to South Lake Tahoe. Buses will leave Pacifica at 6 a.m., and reutrn at midnight. A fee of $20 per person is charged.

Cub Pack's Paper Drive

Cub Scout Pack 276, South San Francisco, will be holding its semi-annual paper drive on Nov. 12-13 in the Winston Manor area.

A large box in the Winston Manor Shopping Center will be available all weekend for deposit of papers. Only clean newspapers can be used. Pickups will be made in the Winston Manor areas on Saturday morning beginning at 8.

Low-Cost Rabies Clinic

The last in a series of low-cost rabies clinics for pets for the current year will be Nov. 12, 1-3 p.m., at the Westlake Recreation Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City.

The clinic is co-sponsored by the Department of Health and Welfare and local veterinarians. Shots cost $3 each for both dogs and cats.

All dogs four months of age and older should be vaccinated against rabies, and the shots repeated every two years.

Since most cities in San Mateo County now require proof that a dog has been immunized against this disease before a license can be issued, owners are advised by the Public Health Division to keep their receipts.

Thanksgiving Festival Set

A Thanksgiving Festival will be Nov. 20 at Mercy High School, 3250 19th Ave., San Francisco, near Stonestown, from 7-9 p.m.

The sponsor of the event is the center for Religion, Education and Society.

There is no charge. For details call 341-1554.

Dogs to Compete

Whether shaggy of short-haired, with the grace of an aristocrat or the fighting stance of a heavyweight, they will all be top-flight canine contenders in this year's San Mateo All Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial, which has been set for Dec. 4.

Deadline for entries is noon, Nov. 14, when the slate of some 2,000 national competitors will be finalized.

The day-long event is one of the best's major kennel club shows, drawing entries from the East Coast and Midwest as well as a substantial California contingent.

"As the variety of breeds favored as household pets continues to expand, so does public interest in the all breed dog show, where over 100 different breeds are eligible to participate," show secretary Pat Johnson remarks.

Judging will take place in the Hall of Flowers throughout the morning and afternoon, culminating in the "Best of Show" award that evening.

The Obedience Trial, which also has gained in popularity among show spectators in recent years, will put canines and their owners through a series of challenging routines. Entries for this category will be limited to 64 entries in Novice A and B classes, 56 in Open A and B, and 48 in Utility.

For registration details call or write the San Mateo Kennel Club show superintenent, 470 38th Ave., San Francisco, 221-2668.

Energy-Saving Exhibit

A traveling exhibit packed with information on energy-saving appliances, home insulaton, and other energy conservation techniques visits Skyline College, San Bruno, Nov. 10 with tips to help homeowners and businesses save energy and money.

Pacific Gas and Electric Company's traveling Energy Conservation Center, a 40-foot trailer housing dozens of displays and packed with pamphlets, will be staffed by two PG&E energy conservation specialists to answer questions.

Admission to the Energy Conservation Center is free. The exhibit will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 10 at Skyline College campus.

CARL HOLMSTROM CELEBRATES 105 YEARS

He says he's just as surprised as everyone else.

He's 105, But Not Ready to 'Tip Over' Yet

By TERRY DAVENPORT

"How old did you say I am?" asked Carl Holmstrom of Pacifica, peering through thick glasses at his daughter-in-law, Edna Holmstrom.

"One hundred and five," she told him.

His eyes widened with amazement. "Well, I guess I will have to tip over the same as other people," he said, laughing.

Carl Holmstrom is just as surprised as everyone else that he celebrated his 105th birthday Friday. Five years ago, reaching age 100 was such a novelty that he agreed to fly back to Duluth, Minn., for a big celebration with relatives.

This year, he would have none of that. He plans to spend the day sitting in the sunshine on his patio and reading newspapers in his favorite easy chair. "I've had so many birthdays, I don't think about them anymore," he chuckled.

He decided on that trip to Minnesota that he would live out his days in California. "I remember exactly when he decided he prefers California," recalled his daughter-in-law. "While we were there it snowed and he opened the door and looked out for a long, long time. Then he closed the door and said, 'I think I go back to California'."

Up until then, Holmstrom thought of Minnesota as home. Born in Roslott, Sweden, in 1872, he moved to America in 1911 after hearing glowing stories from four brothers who were living in Duluth. It took him many years to build up a thriving business as a blacksmith.

By 1914, he had saved enough money to send for his wife and six children. They arrived after a hair-raising voyage, for they had to sail north through icebergs to avoid German submarines.

In Duluth, Holmstrom was known as the "Singing Blacksmith" because he often sang as he worked. Today he often plunges into a Swedish ballad or "Home on the Range" in his lilting accent. When the World Series is on television, he loves to sing along with the opening "Star Spangled Banner."

Holmstrom has survived his wife, 11 brothers and sisters and three of his eight children. One son, Mrs. Holmstrom's husband Hugh, died last Friday after a long illness.

The only explanation Holstrom can offer for his longevity is that he worked hard at his occupation — right up until the day he retired 33 years ago.

Although his eyes are weak and he has some difficulty walking, Holmstrom is in good health and has a hearty appetite and plenty of hair.

He also has retained a delightful sense of humor and a strong sense of eti- to use his eyes, but he would turn on the TV and read newspapers. We couldn't stop him," she said.

Being 105 is fine with Holmstrom as long as he's in good health. As soon as a person gets ill, it's all downhill, he explained, using his hand to illustrate the inevitable plunge.

What does he recommend doing in order to live a long time?

quette. He insisted on wearing a white shirt and tie when our photographer came to take his picture. Mrs. Holmstrom said he always gets dressed up when she takes him out for a ride in the car.

Getting Holmstrom to the doctor is a bitter battle. Mrs. Holmstrom finally persuaded him to go for his first routine check-up at age 92. "The doctor couldn't believe he was 92," Mrs. Holmstrom said. "He kept saying, "You mean 82, don't you?" "

She was very concerned when he had an operation a few years ago that removed cataracts from his eyes. "He slept peacefully through the operation. Later he sang for the nurses. He wasn't supposed

"I don't know," Holmstrom answered. "I eat the same as people in general. I don't do anything special."

He crooked one eyebrow and asked again, "How old did you say I am?"

"One hundred and five," Mrs. Holmstrom said.

"That's pretty old," he chuckled.

Home for Elderly 'Doesn't Fit In' But Wins Approval

A boarding house for eight senior citizens was approved Monday night in San Bruno despite the protests of nearly every resident of the block.

A petition signed by 51 persons who live near the site at 164 Santa Dominga Ave., pointed to potential parking problems if the home for ambulatory elderly persons were approved.

However, many who attended the Planning Commission hearing talked about potential decreased property values and disruption of the residential character of their neighborhood.

One woman, who lives next to the boarding house, is worried that elderly residents will be looking over her fence when she has company and calling the police if she has a party that lasts after 10 p.m.

She also said no one will buy her house — if she decides to sell — knowing that the boarding house is located next door.

"I didn't buy the house knowing that I was going to have anything like that next to me," Mrs. Fuller said. "If I had known, I wouldn't have bought the house."

Another resident, Mrs. Anna Elkins, accused the planning staff of trying to sneak a business into a residential area.

"This may be a problem for the elderly," she said referring to housing needs. "But, it certainly doesn't fit in here."

In a long staff report, planner Larry Smith explained that the eight occupants will not be bedridden. Ambulatory patients primarily are self-sufficient, but in need of some assistance, he said.

"We are of the opinion that there is a serious deficiency in housing for the elderly," Smith said. The San Bruno Housing element notes this fact and seeks to "ensure development of housing for the elderly near the downtown area."

He pointed out that there are many such facilities in Hillsborough, Burlingame and Belmont charging residents $500 to $700 a month.

But, he said, a senior citizen on Social Security is allowed $305 a month for residential care and there are few facilities that person can afford.

The San Bruno home will charge $350, he said.

The facility, he said, is not for seniors with physical or mental illnesses. No noisy or destructive tenants will be permitted by the applicant, Ms. Fe Ancheta.

Smith noted that the home has operated since October without city approval. When the applicant's boarding house in San Francisco closed, Ms. Ancheta received tentaive approval for an emergency move to San Bruno, pending receipt of a use permit and Fire Department approval.

But, she moved four of the San Francisco residents into the San Bruno house in the interim, he said.

Residents lined up at the microphone for 45 minutes stating their objections to the proposed boarding house.

Mrs. Patricia Ramsil questioned the safety of housing eight elderly persons — plus a nighttime housekeeper — in a five-bedroom house.

Mrs. Sarah Twigg — who circulated the petition — said a boarding house is a commercial use that shouldn't be allowed in the neighborhood, zoned R-3.

Several of the speakers complained that the house will compound an already difficult parking situation on the street. But, Smith said that family visits, unfortunately are uncommon. It's rare for residents to have more than one visitor a month and some have no family at all, he said.

"You are saying these people — elderly citizens — may need the facility there," Molly Figone said. "But, if they don't have visitors, they'll be locked up worse than jail."

However, Mrs. Twigg later told one commissioner in the lobby that the main concern of the neighborhood is the potential drop in their property values.

A 17-year-old in the audience, Mike Larsen, said he lives behind a boarding house for seniors on Hazel Avenue and has never seen the tenants peeking over his fence or bothering anyone. In fact, he said, he only learned it was a home for the elderly when he peeked over the fence and saw several elderly women in the yard.

Commissioners also were concerned about potential parking problems, but eventually were satisfied that the garage and driveway would provide enough parking.

The use permit prohibits any of the elderly residents from owning cars. It also stipulates that there be no visitors between 7 p.m. and 9 a.m.

Smith said it will not be uncommon for the elderlydwellers to take walks in the neighborhood, although most of their activity will be confined to the house and yard.

"If supervision is adequate, there should be no problem with noise or other disturbances in the neighborhood," he said.

The commission unanimously approved the use permit, adding a provision for review of the permit in four months. The protesters immediately vowed to appeal to the City Council.

Ms. Ancheta — whol holds a bachelor of arts in social work — said four more elderly persons are waiting to move in.

She said she understood the neighborhood concerns and also was concerned about safety. Protests of this nature, she said, are a common reaction.

Changes in Teamster Leadership

Allan Baird has been elected business manager and executive officer of the Teamsters Union Local 921 of San Francisco. He was voted to the position Tuesday by the local's executive board. The vote is the culmination of a power struggle which has been going on for months.

Baird replaces Jack Goldberger, a long-time secretary-treasurer and business manager of the local, which represents drivers in San Mateo County.

Goldberger submitted his resignation Oct. 26, said Baird. However, Baird said Goldberger has recently telegramed the local office to say he is going to try to return from vacation Dec. 1 to his old job.

Said Baird, "It's probably a legal matter now."

He added that he has changed the locks at the local's headquarters.

Center Plans Approved

The total cost of San Bruno's proposed community center is close to $600,000, even though only $385,000 officially has been granted to the city so far, the Parks and Recreation Commission learned.

But the commission appeared satisfied with City Manager Gerald Minford's assurance that more federal funds will be available. The four commissioners present unanimously voted to support plans, financial aspects and staffing and forward their approval to the City Council.

Minford said county officials have informed him the city will receive at least one more year of Housing and Community Development Act Funds that can be funneled into the community center project.

The city had consolidated the first three years of HCDA funds to support the center, to be located in the old Hatlo Market at 446 San Mateo Ave.

Minford said the fourth year of funding will be no less than one-third of the total package to date — or about $128,000.

That brings the total funding received and the minimum funding expected next year to approximately $513,000.

Minford explained that the remodeling, along with the fees of architect Hashim Al-Yassin of Millbrae will be no more than $400,000. The building itself cost $155,000.

Al-Yassin's fee is 10 percent of the renovation cost, not to exceed $25,000.

The Parks and Recreation Commission first studied the proposed center plan Oct. 5 and recommended a design concept to the city council.

However, the council was not satisfied that the commission had thoroughly reviewed and approved the proposed design and sent it back for another look.

Council members were particularly concerned about the estimated cost of the project.

New Member Reception

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a reception of new members Nov. 19, 1 p.m. at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, 60 Wellington Ave., Daly City.

The ritual mass ceremony will be celebrated by Court Chaplain Rev. Antonio Rey and presided by District Deputy Mrs. Josephine Fracchia. Regent Mrs. Remy Paz states that several courts in the archdiocese will be bringing candidates to be received at the reception also.

Among the honored guests expected are State Regent Mrs. Rose Elinor Murphy and Mayor Albert Teglia of Daly City, as well as officers and members of other courts in the San Francisco Archdiocese. Mayor Teglia will officially present the Proclamation of National Catholic Daughters of America Day in Daly City to the Court.

Any Catholic lady 18 years or older is invited to join the Catholic Daughters of America, a fraternal group whose programs and activities begin at the Church Parish level and extends itself to all concerns of today's Church and society. For further information, please contact Regent Remy Paz at 756-0752 or Archdiocesan Chairman of Extension, Eva Baldwin at 397-6833.

Guest speaker at the social following the ceremonies will be Miss Nadine Calligiuri, foundress of California Handicapables Inc.

Free Recital on Tap

Die Winterreise by Franz Schubert will be performed by Ed Cohn, bass, and Peggy Salkind, piano, in a free recital at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. The recital will be in Hellman Hall, 1201 Ortega St., San Francisco.

For details, call 564-8086.

"MR. BIG"
In San Mateo Park — 6 Bedrooms, upstairs plus 2 bedrooms (or use them as presently used for family room plus den) downstairs. Fantastic living room 23x17 and dining room 24x16! Updated kitchen - baths - electric wiring - plumbing. Full basement for all kinds of hobbies. A garage you can't believe. Ideal for a Big Family to replace the "All Gone" present family of 8 children — or "beautifully" perfect for the family wanting "parents under the roof" with room for all — with privacy for everyone. Notice the woodwork — plate rack in dining room — bevelled glass sliding door — forgotten arts — quality of construction. A real joy to see for just the right family. For "Mr. Big." Priced $250,000.

SAN MATEO HILLS
A two-story beauty — four lovely bedrooms, 2½ baths, large family room, 14x25 living room, separate dining room, great all electric kitchen and three car garage. Choice location — quiet street. All this including membership in Recreation Center with tennis, swimming and planned activities. $159,000.

BEST BUY IN TOWN WITH A POOL
A cozy sunny rancher on a quiet street in prestigious El Cerrito Park. Very large living room — dining combination. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, large air-conditioned "Bonus" room and full attic. Plus 16x34 heated/filtered pool, Sauna, BBQ, and Wet Bar. Lots of good living and great value at only $159,500.
